Overruled Motion for New Trial of the Davis Case

In the supreme court at Boston, this morning, Judge Morton overruled the motion of City Solicitor Duncan for a new trial in the suit of John H. Davis et als., petitioners, City Iron Foundry, against the City of Lowell, and the city and railroads interested must pay the verdict of $2,329.96 assessed by a jury here two weeks ago for damage suffered by the City Iron Foundry to its property in Plain street by reason of the construction of an embankment in the process of the grade crossing work at that place.

YOUTH USED GUN

Tried to Shoot His Father After Wounding Himself

John Coulls, aged 20, years, and living at 417 Market street, fired a bullet through his left little finger this morning, and then attempted to kill his father, Angelos Coulls. The young man however was arrested by Officer George Abbott before doing further harm.

Angelos Coulls, the father, runs a signmaker's shop at the corner of Market and Jefferson streets, and his son John is in his employ. They both live over the shop. At 8:45 o'clock this morning John left the shop and went upstairs to eat breakfast, while his father continued working.

A few minutes later the father's attention was attracted by a woman on the second floor who was shouting that John had killed himself. He ran up the stairs and there found John lying on the floor with a 38 calibre revolver in his right hand, and a bullet wound in the little finger of the left hand. When the boy saw his father enter the room, he quickly got up on his feet and aimed the revolver at him. The father, however, sprang upon his son and grabbing him by the throat, after a long struggle, held him till Officer Abbott, who happened to be nearby, and heard the shouts, took hold of him.

The revolver is of the 38 calibre type and contained five shells, two of which were empty. After a severe examination on the part of the officer it was disclosed that only one shot had been fired in the room, and that was the one that penetrated John's finger, and lodged itself into the wall.

The prisoner was sent to police headquarters and arraigned before Judge Hadley on a complaint of threatening his father. The young man who asked if he was guilty of the charge preferred against him, answered in good English "I was mad and wanted to kill my father." After hearing the testimony of the father, the court ordered the defendant to furnish bonds in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for a term of six months. The required bonds were not furnished and John was committed. Before going to jail the prisoner was treated by Dr. Smith,

CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

Hearing on the Location to be a Lively One

It is expected that the hearing to be given by the city council in joint convention to persons opposed to the location of a contagious disease hospital on the site selected by the contagious hospital commission, next Tuesday night, will be a very lively one.

Fred W. Jenness, one of the remonstrants, was a caller at the city hall this forenoon and he was very positive that the hospital would not be erected on the site selected by a majority of the commission. Mr. Jenness said there seemed to be too much personal feeling in the matter of a location and he was surprised that professional men should display temper in a matter of business so important to property owners.

"I am free to admit that I did not follow this matter closely enough in the beginning," said Mr. Jenness, "but when the proposition was made to locate the hospital at the city farm I thought the commission had in mind the site now advocated by Dr. McCarthy. So far as doctors are concerned I have no choice in an argument of this kind and I can lean only to the man who leans to right and common sense."

"In this matter Dr. McCarthy is in the minority, but he is in the right; just the same. He was, at first, in favor of the site now favored by other members of the commission, but when he realized that no had made a mistake he was man enough to say so."

"The property owners or persons living in Chelmsford street in the vicinity of the city farm do not want to see a hospital of this kind stuck up in front of their homes. There is no need to build the hospital there where there's another and a larger lot at their disposal on the same premises. The other lot is well back and away from the street and houses. Any man who has any knowledge of real estate knows that property in the vicinity of the city farm would deteriorate if a hospital should be built on the site selected by the commission. Dr. Martin says there is no danger of contagion from the hospital. If there is no danger of contagion, then there is no need for a contagious disease hospital."

"We do not propose to stand for the erection of a hospital on the proposed site. I do not want to and would not oppose anything that is a public necessity, and while this matter of a contagious hospital may be a necessity, it is not necessary that it should be built on the site selected by the contagious hospital commission. The public ought not to suffer because of any feeling between members of the commission and the men who would build a hospital upon the proposed site should put themselves in the place of a property owner there and ask themselves if they, as property owners, would want a contagious disease hospital at their front door."

MAN WAS KILLED

While Trying to Enter
Neighbor's House

CLINTON, Me., May 20.—While attempting to enter the house of Horace Clifford, a neighbor, last night, Orrin Hayes was shot and killed. According to Mr. Clifford, Hayes became deranged a few days ago and frightened and fired at him with a shot gun. Hayes lived about an hour. He had the reputation of being a good hard-working man, had been employed in the tannery for years and was between 45 and 50 years of age. County Attorney Williams of Augusta was called here to investigate the case.

FOREST FIRES

Burning Over a Vast Territory

TOKIO, May 20.—Forest fires in Hokkaido, the northernmost of the islands of Japan, are devastating a vast territory. A number of villages already have been destroyed. The troops have been called out and every available man is fighting the flames. The fire is almost sixty miles in length. It is impossible this afternoon to estimate the number of fatalities or the amount of damage resulting from the conflagration.

YOUNG BOYLE

LOWELL BOXER TO APPEAR AT WOBBURN

Young Boyle, the clever 126 pounder of this city, who has blighted the aspirations of many of the youngsters of his class, is matched in a semi-final for Monday night with Cy Goodwin of Boston, before the members of the Woburn Athletic club in Lyceum hall in Woburn. Boyle has been coming at a rapid gait, and has moved down all of the cleverest at his weight.

Cy Morgan, although a new comer, has shown the clubs of Boston that he has some knowledge of the game and has defeated all who have faced him on the roped platform. He fought a fight before the Armory club members a few weeks ago which was remarkable for its length, inasmuch as he put his opponent to sleep with the first swing of his terrible left, which landed squarely on the jaw.

Boyle, as an advocate of the proposition he has on his hands to defeat Goodwin, and has put in the past week in faithful training, and is in tip-top shape for the bout.

His preference among ordinary irons is governed by style of handle, or weight, or shape.

exposition of the blessed sacrament will be given during the whole hour, and there will be hymns in honor of the blessed sacrament, sermon and meditation. All the parishioners are invited to attend.

DOMESTIC JARS

Heard by Judge Hadley
This Morning

The police court session was rather brief this morning, as there were but a few cases, and Judge Hadley disposed of them in about 45 minutes.

Manuel Foster pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with threatening his wife, and was ordered to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for six months. Mrs. Foster testified that last Thursday her husband threw a cup at her and later threatened her bodily harm. She also said that he was in the habit of getting intoxicated every Saturday, and that she was afraid of him. Manuel had nothing to say and the above sentence was imposed.

Non-support

Geo. Marcotte, who allowed that he was not treating his wife as he should by pleading guilty to a charge of non-support, was given a probation term with the understanding that he will pay $4 per week for the care of his wife and child. The wife in the course of testimony said that she was living with her mother who is supporting her, while her husband refuses to care for her. The husband testifying in his own behalf said he was willing to care for his better half as long as she would keep away from her mother entirely.

However, the court ordered the defendant to pay $4 per week to the probation officer for the care of Mrs. Marcotte.

Drunkennes

Catherine Martin and John J. Fox were both sentenced after pleading guilty to charges of drunkenness. Walter Wilson, a young man, aged 20 years, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. Patrolman Lennay and Breault testified that the young man was frequently under the influence of liquor and that he did not work. Two first offenders were released by the probation officer, and two others were fined $3 each.

TWO WAYS TO

WAY No. 1

Start a fire in the coal range, then wait two or three hours for the water in the boiler to become heated. While you are waiting the time may be occupied clearing away the litter and muck made while starting the fire. All this time the coal range is ambitiously heating the entire house. Not very pleasant on a hot summer day.

WAY No. 2

Use a VULCAN GAS WATER HEATER

Strike a match, turn a valve, and in 5 minutes enough hot water for toilet purposes. In 10 minutes enough for dish washing. In 20 minutes enough for a bath.

Needless to say which way is most convenient.

A SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The proposition to establish a summer White House on Lake Minnetonka, Minn., near Minneapolis, was received with favor today by President Taft. Rep. Nye of Minnesota told Mr. Taft he would introduce in congress a bill appropriating money for a summer home there. The president said that while this summer's plans had been made he would be glad to occupy a Minnesota summer White House next year if congress and the people of that state should provide such a place.

NOT THE VANGUARD OF WILD WEST SHOW

But the Advertising Outfit of a St. Louis Brewery Booming Anheuser-Busch and Budweiser

During the last few days a great many residents of Lowell supposed that the first instalment of the Buffalo Bill Wild West show had arrived in Lowell on seeing two large wagons, one drawn by six beautiful mules and the other by six oxen. The mules are in charge of Harvey Burgess assisted by May Wagner, and the oxen in charge of Peter Young with Tony Lisle assistant. The teams are not a part of the Buffalo Bill show but are simply an advertising outfit put on the road by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. of St. Louis, and are to visit various agencies throughout the country. They arrived here four days ago, and have attracted wide attention wherever they went throughout the city.

The oxen are attached to an old fashioned prairie schooner, and several dogs follow this team to make it look as if it had just crossed the plains. It bears in large letters the legend "Budweiser," the name of one of the company's famous brands of beer. The oxen came from Kentucky and Texas. They are all perfectly matched and the leading pair are twins. Two oxen are always held in reserve, so as to guard against breaks in the team by sickness or accident. They are all sleek and fat showing evidence of the best of care and grooming. The men in charge of them treat them as pets, and know the tastes and dispositions of each particular one.

The mule team is said to be unrivaled in the world. The Anheuser-Busch Co. employed a veterinarian who spent six months collecting the eight mules on the team, two always being held in reserve. They are so perfectly matched that none but the driver can distinguish one from the others. The mules are rather small in size, but are very beautiful animals. The harness on this team is said to have cost $1200. The two teams when in procession make a sight as unique as anything seen in a circus parade.

The show started daily on a tour from the business places of St. Thomas, E. Lennon, 310 Market street, who is the local agent for the St. Louis brewery and their various brands of beer and Anheuser-Busch and Budweiser.

A BIG INCREASE

In Earnings Expected by Railroads

NEW HAVEN, May 20.—Traffic agreements in part heretofore outlined between the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the New York Central road providing for an extensive interchange of traffic in southern New England are soon to be signed. Computations made at the office of the New Haven company show, it is asserted, that there will be a decided increase of net earnings when the arrangements go into full effect. This is due particularly to better results for the New Haven on their through traffic east and west owing to a more favorable division of rates. The New Haven will not have to the same extent as heretofore the haul on business via Jersey City but on the other hand the short hauls on the Boston & Albany and the New York Central connection will result in decided economies in operation. It is claimed also by the New Haven officers that the greatly increased business thrown on the Boston & Albany will result in the extinction of the deficit in the lease of that line if not in an actual profit.

ART ASSOCIATION

ELECTS JOSEPH A. NESMITH PRESIDENT FOR ENSUING YEAR

The Lowell Art association held its regular monthly meeting at the Whistler house, yesterday afternoon and elected Joseph A. Nesmith, president and Rev. Charles T. Billings, vice president for the ensuing year. The entertainment committee reported $350 proceeds from the recent vaudeville show.

The membership tickets for the new year—necessary for current exhibitions—are now ready, and the treasurer, Mr. Arthur T. Safford, will shortly issue his annual report in printed form and with it the usual call for the payment of annual dues—which form the chief source of revenue on which the society is forced to rely for its maintenance and work. Mr. Coggeshall's exhibition is still on the walls at the Whistler house, and will give place to pupils in annual training from the local schools. This will be followed by the summer exhibit, which this year is to consist of textiles and Japanese prints loaned by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Membership tickets will hereafter be issued by Miss Mary Stevens, chairman of the membership committee, 27 Nesmith street.

HIGH SCHOOL PARTY

The dancing party, held in the town hall last night by the senior class of the High school, proved a most successful affair. The attendance was the largest that was ever present at any of the affairs conducted in previous years. The hall was tastefully decorated with national colors and the stage was set with potted plants and ferns on the left of the hall was situated a cosy corner, where the matrons of the evening received the guests. There were many new dances presented during the evening and the many pretty groups of the young ladies presented a very fine appearance. A concert program was given from 8 to 8:45 when dancing was commenced and continued until 10:30 when an intermission was given and refreshments were served in the lower hall. Miss Gertrude Quigley, under whose personal direction the party was conducted, deserves credit for the success of the affair as it was a decided success socially and financially. The following acted as matrons: Mrs. Holt, wife of the principal, and the Misses Quinn, Goodkin, and McDermott, teachers in the schools. Notable among the guests present during the evening were John E. Harrington and John J. Monahan, members of the school committee. Mrs. Monahan and Mr. Holt, principal of the high school, with the other teachers of the schools in the village.

CALVARY MEN'S LEAGUE

So varied and high-class is the concert next Wednesday evening at the Calvary Baptist church to be, that the particular fancy of the most exacting person is sure to be abundantly satisfied. Mrs. Made Harrington Benjamin of Boston has been introduced to Lowell audiences under most favorable conditions and she fully met all expectations. Her readings are artistic and finished and yet are most charming in their complete naturalness. Laverne H. Harrington, considered a fine violinist when he resided here, but since his residence in Boston he has greatly improved in style and technique and he is greatly in demand in concert work. Miss May E. Caddell has won a place for herself as a whistling soloist, and it is a real delight to listen to her bird-like notes and trills. George E. Burns is a bass soloist whose ability is favorably known well beyond the limits of our city. Arthur J. Martel has a host of friends here who do not tire in praise of his skill in handling a great organ. COL. WILLIAM F. CODY

COL. WM. F. CODY

Estimate of His Show
by Col. Burke

Col. Burke of the Buffalo Bill show speaking of the present aggregation, said: "Do not imagine that the show you are to see here on May 24 is the same show you saw here four years ago. Nothing like it ever appeared at any previous time. It is up to the minute in every feature and every year has seen it multiply its wonderful features. This he says is Col. Cody's farewell tour as he is about to retire from the show business and spend his remaining days in the quietude of his ranch."

Here Col. Burke glanced over the history of the country, noting how one certain after another was lifted by explorers, missionaries and soldiers. Decades of each century went each marking an advance until the comparatively to us early days of Washington and Crockett along the Ohio, then of Louis and Clark, Fremont and Carson and their kind, who helped to dissipate the misty shroud that covered the vast expanse beyond the Missouri. Thus was certain after the curtain ready to disappear, until a final time from the saddle a regretful farewell was raised in a unique man, well-

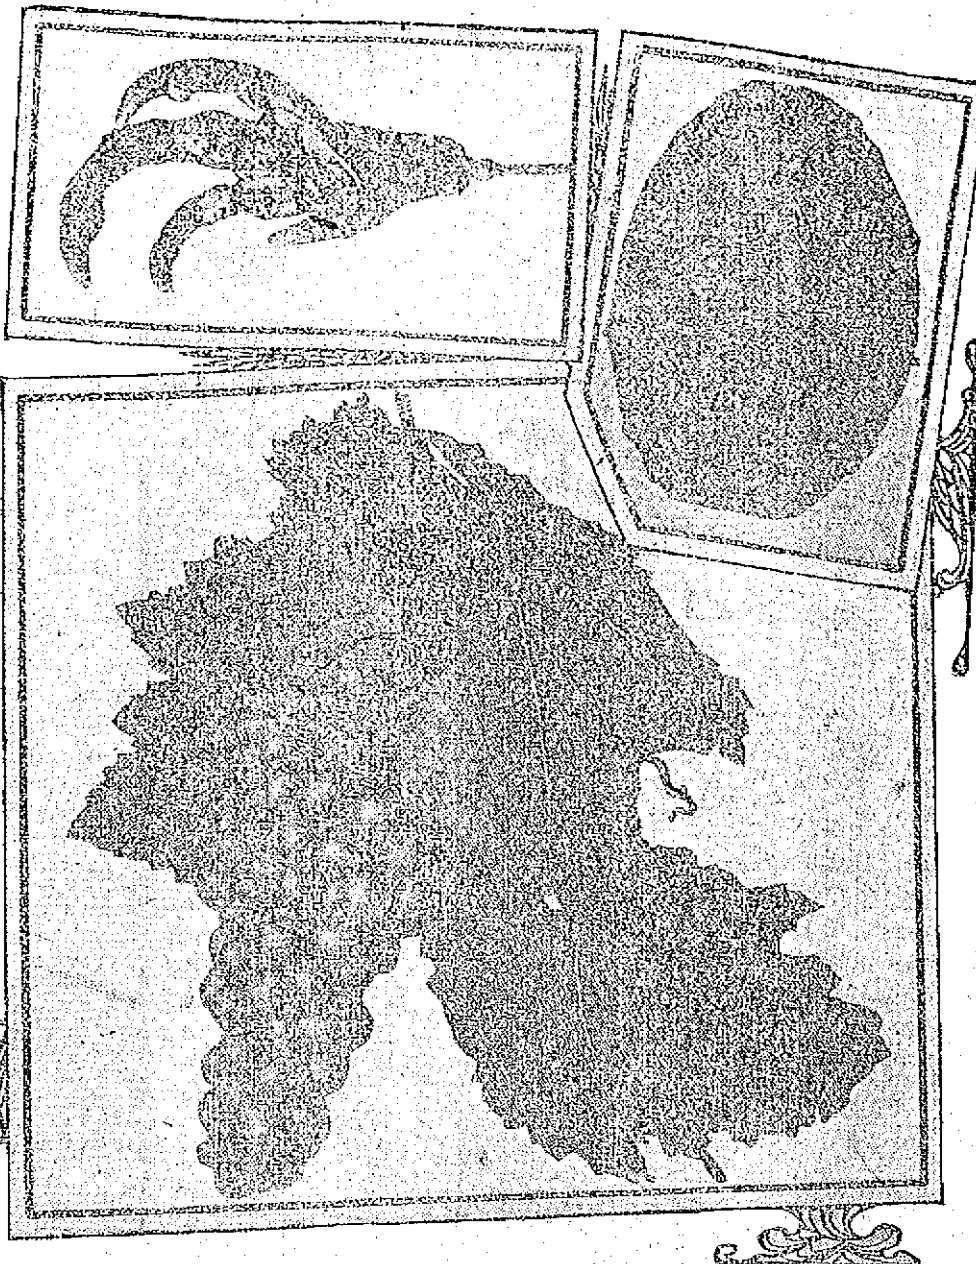

ner by Col. W. F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, making the known and the unknown better acquainted and inaugurating his great national exhibition.

Years afterward, on his visit to the Queen's Jubilee in 1887, the London Times, recognizing it as a factor, arousing fraternal feeling between the two countries, said "Col. Cody has done his share in bringing England and America near together." It is just as true that he was largely instrumental in making the east and the west know the greatness of each other, engendering mutual respect and knowledge of the vast resources that have since played a factor in the nation's wealth.

For thirty years he has contributed through his exhibition a practical method of educating the spectator with scenes, incidents from the nation's history and the story of the aboriginal people whose present fast assimilation with the white man marks an epoch in history, when the conquering race absorbs the conquered.

Advancing further along the line to add human interest he has extended his exhibition to one of international importance by adding to his original Wild West his friend and fellow exhibitor, Pawnee Bill's Far East. With these two valued exhibits combined in one arena, at one time, at one price, he feels that a fitting program is presented to celebrate his last visit to your city on the closing tour of his career as an exhibitor, one as can point to with pride as he bids you at the same curtain ready to disappear, until a final time from the saddle a regretful farewell was raised in a unique man, well-

STRANGE JEWELRY FROM PARIS

By means of a secret process, Professor Louis G. Delamotte is able to convert flowers, fruit and even animal life into metal. His method does not consist merely of electroplating. He does not deposit upon the surface of the petals of the carnation, pear, dragon fly or what not a thin layer of metal. Such plating is by no means a new art. He confines his energies toward the conversion of the organic material into one of an inorganic character. As a matter of fact, when looking at a bunch of grapes which have been converted into the metallic state by his process it is impossible to say that it is otherwise than fruit. The treatment is accomplished in its entirety by electrical agency. The picture show (1) a fowl's foot metallized to form a chandelier hampin, (2) a cactus converted into a metal pepper pot, (3) a bunch of grapes in their natural

KEEP ACCOUNTS

Some Information for Women

"I wonder where it all went to!" one hears a woman say over so often when gazing at an empty purse, and you can be sure of one thing—the woman who does not know where it goes will soon have no money to wonder about.

In other words, my friends, keep accounts.

The woman who writes down each night what she has spent each day knows where she is "at" in the very particular of the boys. At the end of the month when she has a deficit she is able to judge why it exists—because of what extravagance—and this gives her the requisite hint, without which she would be totally at sea.

The woman who keeps no accounts never knows what percentage she is paying for rent, for dresses, etc. She is rarely able to save, to lay aside anything for a rainy day, for savings are done little by little, not in large sums.

The discrepancy between a thirty-five dollar bill and a twenty dollar bill (which did not wear well because too elaborate for the price paid) will be very apparent to any woman when she sees those two items set down side by side. She will also understand by the length of time they lasted her that she should have paid more for her shoes and less for embroidered silk stockings and that when underwear had a certain sum paid for it lasted twice as long as the cheaper variety did.

Not only for clothes and household expenses is the daily spending account, but also for the daily spending account. No woman realizes what she wastes in useless car fares, telephones and sodas unless she writes it down.

Ten cents seems little enough, but when it is the fifth ten cents in a day half a dollar is gone which might buy one of many useful and greatly needed things.

This is the knowledge which makes keeping accounts fully worth the effort.

*BIRTHDAY PARTY

A merry gathering of friends took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, the occasion being the 17th anniversary of both of their daughters, Agnes. In behalf of their present, Miss Margaret Cull presented Miss Nicholson a beautiful gold signet ring. Although taken by surprise, Miss Nicholson thanked her friends in a pleasing manner. There were piano solos by Miss Hennessey Johnson, duets by Miss Nicholson and Miss Johnson, while Miss Veracunda Cox sang delightfully, "Blonde Boy." Refreshments were served and the merry gathering broke at a late hour, wishing the young hostesses many returns of the day.

May Veto Teachers' Salary Bill

BOSTON, May 20.—The salary committee of the Boston Elementary Teachers' club last night issued a statement affirming their intention to ask the legislature to pass the bill for the increase of their salaries over the veto of Gov. Foss, if the governor fulfills the purpose he announced yesterday to Mayor Fitzgerald and to the teachers. The governor objects to the bill on the ground that it contains what is known as the "mandatory clause," which, in his judgment, violates the rights of the school committee by fixing the salaries of certain classes of city employees in an arbitrary manner.

The mayor had a long interview with the governor in the afternoon, and the governor remained an hour after his usual hours to hear the protests of the teachers' committee against the veto which he expressed to the mayor and which a few days ago he had stated to their attorney, Herbert Parker. The teachers in their statement indicate their belief that the governor is influenced by prejudice in his objection to one clause in their bill, and that there are questions of honesty involved in the demand for the modification of the bill just at the time when the two years' campaign of their club of 2000 members seemed to be at the point of success.

FOR SHORT WEIGHT

Lynn Dealers Are Liabls to be Prosecuted

BOSTON, May 20.—State Sealer of Weights and Measures Daniel J. Palmer yesterday sent a letter to Mayor Connerly of Lynn announcing that wholesale prosecutions were contemplated for violation of law, and that Lynn was in the poorest condition of any city in the state.

The Lynn investigations, it is said at the state house, are only a part of the campaign that the state sealer is waging out for every city in the state.

Sealer Palmer has been waging a war on the strawberry dealers in Boston on account of boxes which contain less than a quart and are not filled to the brim. And the strawberry men have told the sealer that it is impossible to get full measure boxes, because they shrink, and because the berries cannot be shifted from one box to another without injuring them.

A red hot fight on the market district was in addition to the other warfare. Speaking of Lynn the sealer says: "I am of the opinion that when all of the facts are considered, your city shows the poorest condition of any city or town in the Commonwealth."

Mr. Palmer mentions the case of strawberries in Lynn where boxes are 41 per cent short. He says that measures show a shortage of 14.18 per cent. The report mentions the case of one store where there is an error of one ounce in every pound sold. It was an accurate scale found in general use.

In the case of the ice wagons, a study, he says, reveals errors favoring the ice dealers to the extent of 10 per cent. The junk dealers are found to be in a bad position. Of eight examined even had not been sealed. Of the seven five were false, involving a gain of 9 per cent. to the junk dealer.

The case of a scale in the Boston & Maine station is mentioned where overage is weighed. That involves an error of 14 pounds in every 270 pounds of express matter weighed.

In milk bottles a deficiency of 3.79 per cent. is found. Sealer Palmer says that he is convinced that further investigations in Lynn will reveal many more cases of false measurement. He says that there are now twenty-five cases to be put into court.

A FREAK SHOCK

Caused Death of Lynn Youth

LYNN, May 20.—While at work testing lights, Francis Leary, 21 years old, of 35 Woburn street, Lexington, was electrocuted at factory 31 of the General Electric company, at 5.15 yesterday afternoon.

The apparatus with which Leary was working was found perfectly insulated and no reason for the electrocution could be discovered.

The workmen refused to work their last 15 minutes in fear that they, too, would be stricken down when everything in the room seemed all right. Many said they would not go to work in the room today until the cause of Leary's death was determined.

According to officials of the company, Leary was electrocuted while disconnecting a lamp. He had thrown off the switch in the regular way and so it was figured the electricity did not come from the wires attached to the lamp.

He was not instantly killed, as is the case in most instances of electrocution. He was thrown into what seemed to be a stupor and for two hours and a half physicians thought there was life in the body. He was not pronounced dead until 8 o'clock. It was declared that 3000 to 3500 volts passed through his body.

Leary is a graduate of the Lexington high school in the class of 1903. He was night telephone boy at Lexington for a year and then entered the employ of the General Electric company as an apprentice electrician.

TWO ARE GUILTY

Gardiner and Phillips Convicted for Smuggling in Chinese

BOSTON, May 20.—A verdict of guilty was returned in the U. S. district court last night against George M. D. Gardiner of Weymouth and Goodman Phillips of Boston, two of the four defendants accused of conspiracy to smuggle Chinese into this country from Jamaica. The latter has been convicted twice before on Chinese smuggling cases.

Dr. G. F. May of Woodcliffe Lake, N. J., a former Chinese interpreter at the immigration office in Boston, and Capt. Harvey C. Daly of Orient Heights were acquitted.

The jury retired at 4:30 yesterday afternoon after Judge Dodge had delivered the charge. He told the jury that they must consider the case of each of the accused separately, and render a verdict against those who, in their minds, had been connected with the conspiracy to smuggle in Chinese in violation of the U. S. laws.

The jury returned at 8:30 with the verdict. The wives of all four of the defendants were present. Mrs. May, the American wife of the Chinese defendant, embraced her husband with tears in her eyes and then ran to Robert W. Moore of New York, May's counsel, and wrung his hand. Mrs. Daly beamed with pleasure as she ran to her husband after his discharge by the court. Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Phillips wept silently as they made their way to the dock.

Guy A. Ham, counsel for both the convicted men, asked of Judge Dodge for time to prepare the exceptions he had taken during the trial for an appeal. This was readily granted. Gardiner and Phillips were remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal Phillips under $5000 bail and Gardiner under $3000.

During the day Dr. May, the only one of the defendants to take the stand, concluded his testimony. He said he knew at once after seeing Clyde B. Ambrose that the latter was connected with the United States department of justice. Dr. May said he knew of no conspiracy to smuggle Chinese.

Mrs. May testified briefly. Harvey H. Pratt, counsel for Capt. Daly, and Robert M. Moore of New York, counsel for Dr. May, made brief arguments. Mr. Ham spoke about an hour and declared that the government had not made out a case. Asst. United States District Attorney Gardiner argued for the government.

WOMEN INJURED JUDGE GROVER

In Auto Accident Near Concord, N. H. Blames Mother-in-Law for Trouble

CONCORD, N. H., May 20.—Two Brookline, Mass., women were badly hurt at Boscawen yesterday afternoon when the auto in which they had journeyed from Boston plunged into a brook.

They are Mrs. Eliza Bugbee and her daughter, Dr. Emma F. Bridge. The chauffeur, M. Wheaton, jumped.

The party left Boston yesterday morning for Guilford, N. H., where they were to be the guests of Col. Arthur W. Pope, who has a summer home in the mountains. Col. Pope and wife started an hour ahead of the party which met with the accident, and not hearing anything from the latter feared trouble.

The accident happened near a small bridge in Boscawen on a dangerous curve. Dr. Emma Bridge was driving with Chauteur Wheaton at her side and her mother, Mrs. Bugbee, in the rear seat.

The automobile passed safely through the bridge, but turned in the wrong direction, to the right rather than the left, and went over a 40-foot embankment down upon the rocks in a brook which runs below the bridge. Chauteur Wheaton attempted to control the steering gear, but was prevented by a post in the highway. He jumped for his life and escaped with slight scratches and bruises.

He was in his descent to the bed of the brook turned over twice, and yet both Dr. Bridge and her mother escaped death. Mrs. Bugbee was very seriously injured.

She and her daughter were given first aid by Drs. Graves, Alexander and Rowe of Penacook, who hurried to the scene in their automobiles and directed that the women be brought to the Margaret Pillsbury hospital in this city.

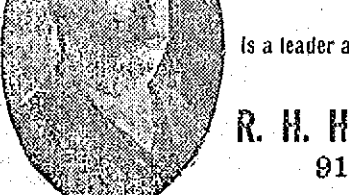

It was learned last night that Dr. Bridge, though sustaining minor cuts and bruises, was suffering from nervous shock. Her mother was much more seriously affected. Mrs. Bugbee has been unconscious at intervals since she was brought to the hospital and the outcome of the accident so far as she is concerned is problematical, as she is about 65 years of age.

She resides at 1453 Beacon street. Her husband is of the firm of Hunt & Bugbee, hardware dealers. Mr. Bugbee is on a western trip and does not yet know of the accident which has befallen his wife. Dr. Bridge lives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pope, 1763 Beacon street.

EMPEROR LEAVES LONDON

LONDON, May 20.—Emperor William, Empress Augusta and Princess Victoria Louise left here today to rejoin the imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Sheerness from which port they will depart for home tomorrow, after an apparently heartily enjoyed visit to the British capital. The imperial visitors spent the week here more like tourists than members of royalty, having devoted all their spare time to sightseeing, at the picture galleries, zoological gardens and museums and at the naval and military tournaments. While out driving or walking they conducted themselves with a remarkable absence of formality. King George and Queen Mary, together with other members of royal families in London, bade farewell to the imperial family at the railroad station in the precincts of which big crowds gave the emperor and empress a hearty send-off.

THE STATE BALL PLENTY OF BEER

Was a Very Brilliant Affair Was Consumed by Chicago People

LONDON, May 20.—The first state ball of the reign of King George, the date for which was selected in honor of the visit of the German Emperor and Empress, was held at Buckingham Palace last night. It was an unusually brilliant function.

King George and Emperor William had dined together at the palace with the royal family, and afterward were joined by 30 additional members of the royal household, who formed into a magnificent procession. The king and emperor, respectively in German and British uniforms, preceded the state officials, in gorgeous robes and carrying their wands of office, through the whole length of the state apartments to the ball room, where thousands of guests had gathered, including Whitehall, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid, and the diplomatic corps.

Queen Mary and the Empress Augusta Victor and all the ladies wore lavish displays of jewelry. Emperor William took as his partner Queen Mary, and King George, the German Empress, The Duke of Cornwall and Princess Victoria Louise, opened the ball with the "Royal Quadrille." Midnight saw a repitition of the gorgeous procession, this time from the ballroom to the supper room.

Queen Mary's corsage was like a breastplate of diamonds. The German Empress wore a diamond crown. The leading processions all wore costly displays. The Duchesse of Westminster, Manchester and Roxburgh were notable. Every man present, with the sole exception of Ambassador Reid, was in uniform. Miss Mabel Choute, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph H. Choute, went with Mr. and Mrs. Reid to the ball.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Three million gallons of beer, it is said, have been consumed by Chicagoans during the excessive heat of the last three days. This is nearly one half a gallon daily for every man, woman and child in the city. No other city in the world, not even Berlin, it is said, can boast of such a drinking record. About one half of the population does not drink beer so it remained for the other half to use four quarts a day each.

There are over 700 saloons in the city. Ordinarily the consumption of beer is three barrels a day to each saloon. This indicates that in average weather the city consumes about 675,000 gallons of beer a day. With the hot wave, however, there has been a big increase and the total sale has been more than 30,000 barrels a day. Figuring thirty-two gallons to the barrel it amounts to about 1,000,000 daily that has gone down the throats of Chicago beerdrinkers.

HUKWANG LOAN FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROADS SIGNED

PEKING, May 20.—The Hukwang loan for the construction of railroads in the provinces of Hunan and Hubei was signed here today by the representatives of the American, British, French and German groups of banks. Besides providing for the original amount of $20,000,000, provision is made in the agreement for an extra $20,000,000 should that additional sum be needed for the completion of the project.

Bankers here are of the opinion that the Hukwang loan is the most important financial transaction ever signed in China. It provides for the construction of 1,200 miles of railroad in Hunan and Hubei and is secured by the revenues of those provinces, which, in case of default, may be administered by the maritime customs.

THE CEMETERIES

To be Searched for Missing Girl

NASHUA, N. H., May 20.—Last night it was proposed to organize a systematic search of the woods and fields, ponds and streams in the vicinity of Nashua for Miss Blanche S. Willoughby, but the conviction is general and is shared by members of the girl's family that Miss Willoughby did not enter the Merrimack river at all.

It is believed that after leaving her hat, coat and gloves on the bank she wandered away and either committed suicide elsewhere or is still in the woods or some place of concealment. Yesterday her father, James H. Willoughby, and her affianced husband, Capt. Harrison D. Swan, went to Hudson and personally searched the woods around one of the cemeteries. It had been a custom of Miss Willoughby every May to visit the grave of a very dear girl friend in that town. It was thought that if the woman answering Miss Willoughby's description seen by the railroad men Monday night was she, she might have wandered in an unbalanced state of mind to her friend's grave and, becoming more deranged, have stayed there.

The police have investigated a clew which was brought to them by Augustus E. Schofield of Front street, who said he saw a young woman bathing and with disheveled hair in Edgewood cemetery.

AMERICAN FLAG

PRESENTED TO WEST LONDON STREET SCHOOL

The members of B. F. Butler, W. R. C., presented a flag to the West London street school yesterday afternoon with appropriate exercises. Miss Margaret Chase, granddaughter of Gilbert E. Chase, a veteran, and a granddaughter of Thomas Doyle, also a veteran, was the flag bearer. Mrs. Lizzie V. Worthen, patriotic instructor, presented the flag in a few well chosen words, and superintendent of schools, A. K. Whitcomb, responded, and at the same time gave a very interesting talk to the children. An interesting program consisting of violin and cornet solos, and also songs in German and Portuguese by students of the schools was given. The exercises were brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," "Flag Salute" and "America."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Red Men

The weekly meeting of Passaconaway tribe, 32, Improved Order of Red Men, was held last night at Old Pelows temple. Sachem Fred O. Marshall occupied the chair. One application was received and one candidate was balloted for and accepted. The class initiation takes place at the next meeting and the degree staff expects to make a favorable showing. A letter was received from the Great Sachem J. W. Converse, urging the brothers to make this term the year of Redemption. Remarks on the welfare of the tribe were made by Edmund Crompton, Edward Whitney, George Houle and the sachem.

REYES DESIRES PEACE

HAVANA, May 20.—General Bernardo Reyes, the Mexican ex-minister of war, who arrived here yesterday from Europe, and who has delayed his departure for Mexico City pending the receipt of despatches from the Mexican capital regarding further developments of the Mexican situation, today made a formal declaration to the Associated Press in which he said that his supreme desire is for peace which can be secured only by the laying aside of all personal and partisan pretensions on the part of both the government and the revolutionists.

THE DAVIE CREDITORS

BOSTON, May 20.—Thirteen creditors of Robert F. Davie, the "boy broker," who is in Charles street jail awaiting trial on indictments charging embezzlement, were reported in claims placed before Emory Gibbs, referee in bankruptcy of the United States district court, at a meeting of creditors in this city today. Claims against Davie amounting to between $5000 and $6000 were presented and approved by the referee. Davie was represented by his counsel, Winfield Towne, who said that his client could not be made to appear at the meeting on account of his having been brought here without extradition papers from Rio Janeiro.

DARTMOUTH BOYS

Look Like Sure Winners of Trophy

SPRINGFIELD, May 20.—With Dartmouth conceded a winner of this year's Intercollegiate Athletic association championship by reason of the all-around work of her team yesterday, interest in the finals at Pratt field today centered in the struggle for second place between Williams, Technology, Western and Bates.

Hundreds of undergraduates came into the city this morning and were practically agreed that the second association cup would accompany the Dartmouth team to Hanover tonight. To the disgust of the collegians, and the delight of the Connecticut Valley farmers rain again threatened to make the games disagreeable from the spectators' standpoint for the third consecutive year. After being practically intercollegiate at Brookline, the New England association came here in hope of better weather conditions. A deluge met them yesterday and a few hours before noon today a cold misty rain set in from the northeast which showed signs of continuing throughout the day. Under such conditions there was little hope of new records being established.

If Dartmouth takes the cup this year the local board of trade has promised another year's trophy in the hope of keeping the games in this city.

School With a History Almost Completed

Five Town Meetings, An Investigation and An Injunction Were Preliminary to Its Start—Chelmsford Iron Foundry Is Going Along Busily

The new schoolhouse in Highland avenue, North Chelmsford, is fast nearing completion under the supervision of Architect Henry L. Roark, and when ready for the reception of the children at the opening of the fall term will be found to be one of the prettiest and most convenient school buildings to be found in any country town in New England.

The school will stand as a monument to the vicissitudes of town meeting legislation for it took five special town meetings, a couple of meetings of citizens, a couple of injunctions and an investigation by the selectmen before the $17,500 necessary for its erection was available.

One of the flourishing industries of North Chelmsford is children and for several years they have been multiplying much faster than schoolhouse accommodations could be afforded for them. At a baby show held by St. John's church a few years ago there were families of from 10 to 14 children present and the proud parents who showed up with only six and seven children were obliged to go way back and sit down. Thus for the past few years the north village has been in bad for schoolhouse accommodations. One grade was and may still be found in the top of the firehouse where there is a dangerous flight of stairs, another grade holds forth in the abandoned armory of Troop F in the town hall, another undesirable place, while a third grade has to journey to West Chelmsford and make use of an extra room in that village, a most unsatisfactory arrangement.

Thus the matter of a new school for North Chelmsford came up at the regular meeting of the town March 23, 1910. A committee of three was appointed to look up sites at the north village. The committee started in by calling an informal meeting of the citizens of North Chelmsford to discuss the matter.

The meeting at first proved to be a case of many men of many minds. Some wanted the Parker lot near the Triant school, a site with no houses near it. Others desired the Stevens lot in Slab City, the extreme upper end of the town, while others wanted the centrally located McEnany lot in Highland avenue. James P. Dunnigan finally asked the committee what site they preferred and after a conference they replied that they liked the Parker lot. Then the meeting took a vote on it and the majority declared for the Parker lot although there was a strenuous minority.

Meanwhile the promoters of the McEnany lot canvassed the town with the result that at the first special town meeting on the matter held May 23, 1910, the town voted to appropriate meeting acted illegally in not using the town check lists. Accordingly on October 4th, the fifth special town meeting was held at which Mr. Malloy introduced a motion calling for the use of the check list and the motion was carried by a vote of 137 to 118. In the interim between the fourth and the fifth town meetings the selectmen held a formal investigation of the charges made by Messrs. Malloy and Buchanan to the effect that minors and non-residents had voted at the meeting and found these charges unfounded and so reported to the fifth meeting. After the passage of the vote calling for the use of the check lists a set of letters was appointed and a vote taken on the proposition to appropriate $17,500 for the erection of the school on the McEnany lot. The money was appropriated by a large majority after nearly one year's wrangling. Subsequently there was a tie-up over the awarding of the contracts, but finally Messrs. O'Neil were given the contract for the building and the work was started.

The proposed new school is a four room building with a central entrance leading into a corridor, connecting with a nine-foot corridor in rear of school leading to two side entrances. In the center of the main corridor facing the central entrance is the principal's room with toilet and book storage connecting. This arrangement of the principal's room gives him a good view of everything going on in the corridor.

Each class room is provided with a wardrobe for boys and girls and all necessary book cases, closets, etc. The class rooms are sheathed 2 feet, 6 inches high with chalk trough at top and 1 foot, 0 inch black board above.

The second floor is the same as the first with this exception, the principal's room is omitted and a teacher's room with toilet is provided for, over the central entrance on first floor.

The basement is divided up for the girls' play room and toilets in the east side with a staircase from first floor and area entrance to the yard. The west side is divided for boys' play room and toilets with stairs from first floor and area entrance to yard.

The boiler is a clean heating boiler placed under the central portion of the building. The coal pockets are outside along finely at present with prospects bright for a busy summer. There are about 80 men working on full time at the present time. The foundry has just completed an ornamental stairway job for the new Boston college at Newton, Mass., and has shipped away 27 tons of stairways for that building. The company is doing ornamental iron work here at the Opera House on Wednesday evening, May 24 in his new musical comedy, "Jumping Jupiter," which is reliably described as the best laughing show of the season. Mr. Carle evolved "Jumping Jupiter" from the well-known farce, "The Purple Lady," by Sydney Rosenfeld, adapting it to the ends of musical comedy and to his own peculiar talents and individuality. The music is by Karl Hoschna, the famous composer of "Madame Sherry," "Bright Eyes," "Girl of My Dreams," "Three Twins," etc., and possesses all the melodic charm and spirit that characterizes all the Hoschna music. Carle and "Jumping Jupiter" come direct from a two months' run to crowded and approving houses in Boston.

The company that Mr. Carle has gathered around him in "Jumping Jupiter" has been described as the "model musical comedy cast" and in his capacity as author he has been generous to his associates. Heading the company is dainty Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged) who is fortunate in having the best role that has fallen to her lot since "Fiorodora." Will H. Philbrick, an unctuous low comedian; Joseph C. Miron, he of the subterranean voice; Ina Claire, a youthful and very talented girl who has made a great reputation as an artist; Burrell Barabette, singer and dancer; Helen May, prima donna; Jessie Cardewell, dancer; Lester Crawford, John Goldworthy, Helen Raymond, Isabelle Wintoch and others. There are no chorus girls in "Jumping Jupiter," but instead a dozen beautiful and talented young women have been entrusted with small roles.

France & Lederer, who are now Mr. Carle's managers, (they also are producers of "Madame Sherry") have given "Jumping Jupiter" a really beautiful and tasteful production which will be shown here in all its newness and freshness. Miss Hopper's gown speaks the very latest word in advance fashion, and the other female members of the cast are gowned up to the minute. Seats today—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Hathaway theatre reopened this afternoon most auspiciously and a large audience attended the opening performance and was impressed with the delightful temperature of the theatre due to the new cooling plant installed during the week under the direction of Prof. Kennedy of Boston, the well known expert on ventilation. It was the intention of the management to reopen last Tuesday but the cooling plant in the theatre was found to have outlived its usefulness and the opening was postponed until a new plant could be put in. The new company gave a very smooth first performance of Eugene Walter's thrilling drama of the Canadian Northwest, "The Wolf," a play that has been the great dramatic hit of the past few seasons. A review of the performance will appear in a later issue. At the head of the new company which is unquestionably one of the strongest stock companies ever seen in Lowell is Altimor Snow, a leading man with a well established reputation throughout the country. Supporting him is Miss Lillian Lee Anderson, one of the most popular leading women in stock and who stands at the head of her profession in emotional acting. The leading couple is surrounded by an eminent aggregation of players, and the stage is in charge of Mr. James B. Howell, an expert in stage management.

The Three Atlas Brothers, jugglers, present a new and novel line of amusement that is something entirely apart from anything else in their line. #### MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Another high-class series of entertainers have been engaged for next week's bill at the Merrimack Square theatre. The headliners are William S. Marlon and Miss Vira Rial presenting what is programed as their "psychic novelty tabloid," a 20-minute dramatic sketch entitled "The Victim's Power." This presentation is said to be one of the most entertaining of its kind on the vaudeville stage today. Both possess unusual dramatic power and their sketch gives them ample opportunity to display their unusual skill.

Jack Lyle, in his original comedy songs and stories is sure to win a place in the hearts of local theatre-goers. Lyle has a good fund of funny sayings and his stories are rich in humor and told in a manner that is sure to please. His work as a comedian has always been considered of a high standard. Fields and Hanson were booked for a run at Keith and Proctor's theatre in New York City but because of a contract with the Merrimack Square theatre they were obliged to put off their $1550 for the purchase of the McEnany lot, the vote being 18 to 2, while the sum of $13,500 was appropriated for the building of a four-room schoolhouse. A building committee consisting of Capt. J. Adams Bartlett, Stewart Mackay and J. F. McManis was appointed to build the school and they submitted their views to Architect Henry L. Roark, who prepared plans according to their views and specifications. Builders were then asked to figure on the plans and it was found that the building couldn't be constructed according to plans and specifications for $13,500, but would require at least $4000 more.

On August 5th the second town meeting was held and it was voted to appropriate the additional $4000. But the opponents of the McEnany lot never ceased to work against the proposition and on August 23 a third town meeting was held at which it was voted by a vote of 76 to 61 to rescind the former action and they voted to purchase the McEnany lot.

After a week's log-rolling a fourth special town meeting was called on September 4th, at which by a vote of 74 to 37 it was voted to appropriate $17,500 for the erection of the building on the McEnany lot.

This aroused Frank E. Malloy and James Buchanan to a protest against the action of the meeting, claiming that the vote was passed illegally as some voted who were not voters. They consulted counsel and the latter issued an injunction restraining the town treasurer from negotiating any loan for the school, while the remonstrants also claimed that the main building under the principal's room. The remainder of the basement is used for the air chambers and janitor's room. The plumbing fixtures for the boys' and girls' toilets are arranged so that they are well lighted and ventilated.

The drainage is carried to a dry well located in the school yard. From the boiler room is an incline to the yard so that the janitor can run out the ash barrels.

The school is laid out for an eight foot basement with twelve foot stories for class rooms. The outside walls of the building are clapboarded and the roof is of Nonson slate.

The plaster walls and ceilings to be painted.

Has Ample Playgrounds
The superintendent of schools in his last report complimented the town upon the selection of the McEnany lot because of the opportunity given for recreation grounds. The new school will have a larger playground than all the other schools of its town together. At the centre the children are obliged to go over to the common for recreation.

For Board of Trade

A meeting of several well known citizens of North Chelmsford was held at the home of Dr. F. B. Varney last Wednesday evening for the purpose of starting a movement for the organization of a board of trade. The proposition was carefully discussed but no definite action was taken owing to the fact that several citizens who were invited were unable to attend. It was decided to hold a general meeting at the lower town hall on Thursday, May 25th, to which all interested citizens are invited. Dr. Varney will preside.

THE OPERA HOUSE

Fresh from its second triumphant engagement at the Colonial theatre, Boston, "The Archadians" comes to the Opera House on May 22d with all the clever artists, beautiful music, graceful dancers, clean fun and exquisite stage effects that contribute to make this one of the most notable of musical comedy productions. All of Mr. Chas. Frohman's clever dancers, singers and comedians who have helped to make "The Archadians" famous will be here. Dainty Julia Sanderson will be heard in "Bring Me a Rose," "The Girl With a Brogue" and "Charming Weather," golden-voiced Ethel Cadman will sing of the "Pipes of Pan" and "Arenady." Little Mary MacKidd will ask you to "Do Stop the Two-Step." Percival Knight will explain in song about "My Mother," while Frank Nipulan, as the deliciously funny English caterer, who falls into the Well of Truth and become, temporarily, an Archadian, will add to the joy of the performance by his agile dances and his irrepressible fun.

For the benefit of those who did not see "The Archadians" in Boston or New York, it might be explained here that the plot hinges upon the adventures of a London caterer who falls from his perch into Arcadia, a land that Father Time had overlooked, where no one ever grew old and where no one ever told lies. Smith is made an Archadian in face and form and with two Archadian nymphs visits London in the vain attempt to reform that wicked city. The adventures of these guileless people in the London metropolis afford innumerable opportunities for fun and song and dance. The beautifully artistic scenery and the wonderful costumes of "The Archadians" have lost none of their freshness and daintiness because of the long run of that play—Adv.

LAND QUESTION IN ENGLAND

Following the example of Ireland in affording the people an opportunity to become the owners of their holdings, there is a movement in England to enable the tenants to purchase and to compel the landlords to sell under certain conditions. There is a land bill before parliament at the present time, making provision for a liberal advance to the tenants to enable them purchase their holdings. There is a real land question in England and one of greater proportions in Scotland where the "crofters" have to depend almost entirely upon the land for a living. A nation of peasant proprietors will be a stronger, more patriotic and more prosperous nation than one made up mainly of tenants who have little interest in the improvement of their holdings because they have to pay rent forever.

QUEER MILK DECISION

The supreme court of Massachusetts seems to have very liberal ideas in regard to the liquid offered for sale as milk. In an opinion just handed down, the full bench sustains a Vermont company in offering for sale condensed milk diluted with water, cream and skimmed milk. Milk of this kind can be kept for six months if necessary and then diluted to the consistency of milk. The milk inspector of Boston says that the city will be flooded with condensed milk, and the fact that there is now an epidemic of tonsillitis, said to be due to the milk supply, may have some bearing on the case.

It is true the supreme court holds that there was no evidence to show that the defendant company in this case offered this preparation for sale as natural milk. The sale is evidently permitted as is that of buttermilk or cream, but if that be the contention then under the provisions of the pure food laws every bottle or can should be plainly labelled "condensed milk," "diluted milk," "doctored milk," "adulterated milk," or whatever the proper designation should be.

LOWELL'S DEMAND FOR A NEW CHARTER

The people of Lowell hearing that the legislature enacted the Cambridge charter are encouraged to believe that it will also enact the Lowell charter, inasmuch as this city is in much greater need of a new charter than is Cambridge.

Since the charter hearing was held here a number of things have occurred, not only in our city council but outside to convince the voters that a new charter is an imperative necessity if our city is to be given an equal chance of prosperity with the other cities of the state. No city can afford to have to appeal to the courts every little while to compel its double-headed city council to do business. Under the commission charter the voters could regulate all such matters without going to the courts. Time and again has it been demonstrated that the common council is not only unnecessary but an obstruction to the prompt and judicious transaction of the city's business.

The people of Lowell want a charter that will enable them to build a public hall if they want one without waiting half a dozen years to settle a matter that a few business men would settle in two weeks. We want a charter that will centre responsibility so that the people will know where to carry their complaints and know where to place the praise or blame for what is best and worst in the municipal administration. We want a government that will respond to the will of the people, something in which the present charter is wholly deficient. The people can elect their officers under the present charter but they have no control over them after election. What is wanted is a charter that will give the people not only the power of electing their public officials but also of controlling those officials after election. This power is given in the recall which enables the voters to retire an official once he proves recreant to his duty. In the initiative and referendum the people are given the additional power of initiating any law that is desirable and which their elected officials fail to enact. The referendum gives them the power of defeating any bad legislation before it can take effect. Thus the commission charter is the most democratic charter ever devised because it places the power absolutely in the hands of the people, and this clasp at its taking power away from the people is nothing but political humbug put forth to mislead the people.

In these days of scientific progress and widespread competition every city must be in a position to make the best of its opportunities, to develop its resources and provide as best it may for the peace, prosperity and happiness of its people; but this it cannot do under an antiquated charter such as that under which we now try to do business.

We feel that the legislature should realize the situation and give the people of Lowell an opportunity to select a different and a better form of government if the majority so decide. There is a question of home rule involved, and one which the legislature should also recognize. Lowell was before the legislature two years ago asking for a new charter but the demand was refused. If the present petition for a new charter be also refused, the citizens will ask, "What is the use of trying to secure better government since we are handicapped by a legislature which binds us down to a city charter that is nearly half a century old?" We are now a city of 100,000, and it is high time we should get away from the provincialism which has held us down in the past and which unless quickly cast off will prove a handicap to our future progress.

This charter is not, as has been alleged, the concoction of any clique. It is little different from the general form of commission charter adopted by over a hundred cities in this country and likely soon to be adopted by a large proportion of the cities of our own state. It is to be hoped that the people of Lowell will be given a chance to vote upon this important question of changing the organic law of our city.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Harvard professor who says that ten cents a day is enough for food completely overlooks the fact that you can't get strawberry shortcake for less than fifteen cents at any of the restaurants.

White lies aren't always so white as they are painted.

A TRIBUTE TO THE ANIMALS
As a specimen of Tupper's work at its best, may be given the following lines from "Of Cruelty to Animals":

Earth and her million tribes are cured for thy sake,
Earth and her million tribes still with the heathen thy cruelty.
Liveth there but one among the million that shall not bear witness against thee,
A pensioner of land or air or sea that hath not whereof it will accuse thee?

From the elephant toiling at a launch on the saw-mill in the harvest-field,
From the whale which the harpooner hath stricken, to the minnow caught upon a pin.
From the albatross, wearied in its flight, to the wren in her covered nest.

From the death moth and lace-winged dragon fly to the lady bird and the guat.

The verdict of all things is unanimous, finding their master cruel:
The dog, thy humble friend, thy trusting, honest friend;

The ass, thine uncomplaining slave, dragging from morn to even;
The lamb, and the timorous hare, and the laboring ox at plow;

The speckled trout basking in the shallow, and the partridge gleaming in the stubble,
And the stag at bay, and the wren in its path, and the wild bird pinning in captivity,

And all things that minister alike to thy life and thy comfort and thy pride,
Testify with one sad voice that man is a cruel master.

The first man to arrive at an evening party always makes up his mind that he will go slower next time.

A man is absolutely without redress

when somebody makes the remark that the new baby looks just like him.

Almost any man is pleased at getting two per cent. off for cash, even if five per cent. is added to the amount of the bill when it is made out to make the discount possible.

Of course it is too much to expect that your neighbor will haul his heavy garden roller over to your house when he lends it to you, but if you keep it long enough perhaps he will be glad to haul it home.

When a woman asks a man: "Will you promise to do something for me?" without explaining what it is, the only thing for him to do is to say: "Sure!" promptly, and then trust to luck to get out of it, if it is something that he doesn't want to do.

Practice, they say, makes perfect, but the fact remains that the more a man coughs, the worse he coughs.

If everybody should keep his place up the way the neighbors think he ought to, how great an improvement in the appearance of the city there would be!

GETTING OVER IT.
I once was in love with a peach of a girl—
Kind that the story books tell you about—
My heart was a furnace, my head was a whirl,
O I was a lover beyond any doubt.

I pleaded my cause and she listened awhile,
Then laughed at my passion and jeered every vow,
I swore I would die in a tragical style,
But I didn't, and so I'm over it now!

And once I saved up like a thrifty old soul,
Prenching myself for the rainiest day,
Until I had gathered together a roll
That I couldn't carry—I needed a dray.

Yes, I was full wealthy, I dreamed it would last—
A hope which my destiny wouldn't allow,
I look with a sigh at the wreck of my past,
For I love was flush—but I'm over it now!

Time heals all our wounds, as it dims all our joys;
I've loved, and I've worked in the sweat of my brow;
I used to go out for a time with the boys—
O I was a sport—but I'm over it now!

I sit in the evening of life and look back,
On the furrows of life I was anxious to plow,
And only one thing I can feel that I lack—
Ah, once I was young—but I'm over it now!

That's all in my life I would care to call back,
The truth that is fled—but I'm over it now!

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Prof. Marcus N. Horton, educator and one of the oldest graduates of Williams college, died at his home, 88 Essex avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J., Thursday night at the age of 81 years.

He was born in Oxford, Chenango county, N. Y., and when a young man entered the Delaware, N. Y., Literary institute, beginning his educational work immediately after he was graduated from the institute. In 1853 he was graduated from Williams college. Two years later Mr. Horton became instructor in natural sciences under the Rev. Dr. George Kerr, and soon after principal of the Walton, N. Y., academy. In 1861 he again became associated with Dr. Kerr, first as professor of botany and physics in the New York State Agricultural College of Ovid, N. Y., and next associate principal in the Jefferson County Institute, N. Y. In the Agricultural College he remained but one year, due to the fact that a majority of the pupils enlisted in the Civil war. In 1864 Mr. Horton became principal of the Ovid, N. Y., seminary. He applied himself to the study of law and in 1867 was admitted to the bar. He also served as principal of the high school at Williamsport, Pa., and later became superintendent of schools in that city. In 1886 he was superintendent of schools at Towanda, Pa., and from 1887 to 1890 was School Commissioner of Chenango county, New York. For the last four years he had lived in Glen Ridge. His wife and two sons survive him, one of the latter, John M. Horton, being connected with the Chemical bank in New York.

"I have been looking all through the house end of the capitol," said Captain Emerson Brooks of the Cayuga, N. Y., region, "trying to find a painting of Theodore Roosevelt, who was once speaker of the house. I and parties of all other speakers almost from the beginning of things congressional, but none of them. Now, our townsman, Pomeroy was very proud of the fact that he had served as speaker of the house, even if his term as speaker lasted but a single day. That day began March 3, 1891, and he served until the new house was organized on March 4, following the inauguration of Grant and Colfax. You may recall that Colfax had been speaker for a long time, and resigned both as speaker and as member of the house the day before he was made vice-president. That accounts for the one day tenure of the speakership which fell to our friend Pomeroy, who was chosen by the house to preside. He had served several terms as a member of the house, and his congressional service ended when he laid down the gavel after one day as speaker. Pomeroy was a very prominent man locally up our way and had had other positions of honor, but none had given him the pleasure that was afforded by that one day in the speaker's chair. He was a comparatively young man when he left congress, but did not seem to yearn for further political honors."

In the beautiful little city of the dead in the historic city of Eddyville, Ky., is a plain slab bearing the inscription "Murdered in cold blood by Martin Bigwood and Hyman Skinner." This was erected by the widow of Charles Gatewood. Both Bigwood and Skinner served terms in the penitentiary for the crime. Skinner was a member of one of the most prominent families in western Kentucky. He travelled over the entire habitable world and then returned to Eddyville and surrendered to the authorities. Both were pardoned before their terms expired, and so far as we know they have since led reputable lives. Many efforts were made to have Mrs. Gatewood rescind the inscription, but she refused to authorize it, and it is there to this day.

In the state cemetery at Frankfort on a classic marble column may be found the name and a brief record of the life of Solomon P. Sharp, and at the close may be found the significant words: "Stabbed to death while extending the hand of hospitality." Mr. Sharp, at the time of his death in the early part of the last century, was one of the most prominent men of his age in the state. He was killed by his former friend and protégé, Jeremiah Deauchamp. The killing involved a family feud, and partisans of each side may be found to this day.

Some famous jewels will be seen at the coronation of King George V. It is estimated that the value of the apparel and ornaments worn in Westminster Abbey will exceed $50,000,000.

The value of the regalia was calculated at $15,000,000 at the commencement of King Edward's reign. It ranked second in value only to that of the crown of the emperor. Since that time the Cullinan diamonds and several lesser jewels have been added. The actual market value of the famous South African stones is probably not less than $10,000,000.

There will be present at the coronation between 750 and 800 peeresses and a few baronesses, all of whom will wear their finest gowns. Some of

THEY ARE PRACTICALLY PRICELESS IN THAT THEY ARE UNIQUE AND HAVE, THEREFORE, NO STANDARD OF VALUATION.

The Countess of Aberdeen possesses some famous emeralds, including the five largest in the world. Lady Wimbomb possesses the finest rubies in the world, among them being the Hope ruby, a stone far exceeding in value even the more famous Hope diamond. It is so blue in tint that by transmitted light it might almost be taken for a very dark transparent sapphire. With her magnificent diamonds and pearls Lady Wimbomb will carry about $500,000 worth of jewels on her person at the coronation.

In the mere matter of money's worth she will be eclipsed by her American niece, the Duchess of Marlborough, who will no doubt wear her historic pearls, some of which belonged to Marie Antoinette, while others formed the collection of the Empress Catherine of Russia. So perfectly matched are they in skin and color that their equal as a set could not be bought for less than $750,000.

Another wonderful set of pearls is that belonging to the Countess of E. Chester. They are the most perfect black pearls in existence. They were purchased from the Empress Eugenie for $125,000, but their market value today is probably three or four times that amount.

This estimate does not take into account the fortunes represented by the jewelry of Indian princes and chiefs attending the ceremony, some of whom are said to carry from $3,000,000 to $25,000,000 each on their persons on great state occasions.

The annual prize of $100 given by Chester D. Witt Pugsley of Peckskill, N. COMMUNICATION

The following communication is received from the chairman of the charity board.

Editor Sun, Dear Sir: In an editorial in the Courier Citizen of May 18 that paper says "so far as the work of the (charity) board goes, we have heard no special criticism of it this year and have made none editorially to our knowledge."

The writer then suggests that the charity board resign, on a mass—very consistent. This would raise the question whether the writer is en masse or rather scattered. The "low ball" at the "present mayor" is foreign to the workings of the charity board and uncalled for, particularly when one recalls some former mayors of not so long ago as to be classed with the Ancients and Honorables. I notice that in the short editorial there are nine "we's." One got away and was classed as "Us" making really ten. Now, as chairman of the board of charities I would like to invite the "we's" to come and get acquainted with the board at any of our meetings; come en masse or, if the "we's" prefer, singly. Talk to us about "Castles in Spain" or the pyramids of Egypt about which the "we's" probably know a great deal more than of the charity board. If this invitation would in any way lower the dignity, or dignities, (that "we" bothers me, as I don't know whether it is a singular thing or plural) of the singular thing or plural) of the "we's," the board of charity could visit the "we's." By thus meeting the board there might be an interchange of ideas that would be beneficial to the city if not to the Courier Citizen, and how much nicer this would be than to be throwing paper spit balls for political effect. The plural editorial genius of the C. C. need have no fear of meeting the charity board much less of a visit to the institution, where the erroneous ideas held by the "we's" may be easily corrected.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. McCarty, M. D.

WHALERS HARPOONED

Lowell Wins by a Great Fielding Game

The Lowell team returned from its southern trip yesterday and met the New Bedford Whalers at Spaulding park. Capt. Barrows was back in the game again, Manager Gray having settled the dispute over the ownership of the player by purchasing his release from the Lincoln (Neb.) club.

During the absence of the team, many changes were made relative to the sale of tickets and the congestion will hereafter be greatly relieved by the addition to the ticket selling force. With three clerks in the ticket selling booths it will allow three lines of fans and obviate the crowding of the windows.

Thomas Bannon, formerly captain of the Lowell team, made his first appearance as an umpire and he made good. He has a voice which is greatly appreciated by the fans, it being one of those loud and distinct ones.

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Bauman hit a hot grounder to Boutles and was retired at first. Merrill also sent a grounder and was out.

Snyder hit one too hot for Warwick to handle and beat the ball out. Rising singled to centre but McCrone fumbled to first. In the latter half of the inning Moulton hit to Maranville and failed to reach first. Barrows hit to Bauman and beat the ball for a hit. Barrows and Cooney then worked the hit and run play, the latter singling to right and the former going to third base. Magee hit to Wilson and Barrows was nailed at the plate. Fluharty was third out on a fly to Snyder.

Second Inning
In the second inning Maranville flied to Boutles and Wilson was second out on a fly to Cooney. Winchester hit to Boutles and died at first.

Lowell scored two runs in the latter half of the inning. Wright was the first batter up and he singled to centre. Boutles bunted to Griffith who threw bad to first. The ball going to right field and Wright scored on the error. Huston singled to left field, scoring Boutles. Warwick struck out and as he threw his bat to one side some person in the grand stand shouted "You big bum." Warwick invited the man to come out and see him but the latter refused. Moulton then singled. Barrows flied to Merrill, the latter making a beautiful running catch. Huston going to third on the play. Cooney flied to Winchester.

Third Inning
There was nothing doing in the third inning. Griffith and Bauman both sent grounders to Cooney and were out at first. Magee sent a grounder to Moulton and was also retired at first.

In Lowell's half Magee flied to Snyder who made a pretty running catch. Fluharty sent a foul fly which Winchester dropped but "Flu" then hit to Bauman and was out at first. Wright hit to Bauman and failed to reach first.

Fourth Inning
New Bedford got a good start in the fourth but by good playing on the part of the home team the visitors were prevented from scoring. Snyder opened with a single to right. Rising bunted to Warwick who threw to first out. Wright dropped the ball. McCrone hit to Warwick who threw Snyder out at third. Maranville struck out. Wilson went out on a fly to Magee.

The home team went out in one, two, three order in the latter half of the inning. Boutles hit to Griffith and failed to reach first. Huston hit to McCrone and died. Griffith covering the base, Warwick went out. Griffith to McCrone.

second and got Rising. Maranville got a scratch single, hitting in front of the plate. Wilson hit to right field for a single scoring McCrone. Pruitt went to bat for Winchester. He singled to centre field and scoring Maranville. Griffith flied to Moulton. Bauman flied to right field. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

The Whalers again today.

Did you notice Moulton beat it around those bases, not to speak of that fly he got. He's a real speed boy.

If that fresh youngster who called Warwick a "big bum" had any idea that Warwick could get to him, it's a 100 to 1 shot he'd be running yet.

Old Reliable Wolfgang is the prospective slush artist today.

New Bedford is carrying three good catchers, Pratt, Winchester and Swett.

Hats off to Tom Bannon. He umpired a faultless game and they could hear his decisions out in North Tewksbury.

Lowell put up a fast and classy fielding game throughout.

The high scores are beginning to drop. The pitchers are getting more leary than at the opening of the season.

New Bedford has too good a team to remain in last position.

Handsome Harry is the latest sou-briquet applied to Harry Huston, and by the way, Harry was right on the job yesterday. Everything that came his way was a "dead rabbit."

Wheeler, the Haverhill catcher, broke his right thumb in yesterday's game.

Fall River has a new pitcher named Blum, and that's the English of it; not the way a Chinaman would pronounce it.

LOUIS BRANDEIS

May Help in Post Office Probe

BOSTON, May 20.—It is stated here, with partial confirmation from Washington, that Louis D. Brandeis, the wealthy lawyer who was counsel for L. R. Glavis in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, has offered his legal serices free of charge to the democratic committee of the house of representatives which is to investigate the affairs of the postoffice department. The committee has not received any communication from Brandeis direct, but certain members have heard from what they regard as trustworthy sources that Brandeis is willing to go to Washington and "start something," and if this report is verified he can at least look for a warm welcome.

LADY FORESTERS

Of Court Blanche de Castille—Its History and Officers

One of the most prosperous courts of the French American Order of Foresters in this city is Court Blanche de Castille, which is composed of women exclusively. It was organized on October 26, 1905, by Deputy F. N. Rivet.

The first meeting was held at C. M. A. C. hall and on that night 42 charter members were initiated. A short time later another similar court was organized in the Centralville district, and this was known as Court Jeune d'Arc. For some reason or other, however, this last court did not exist very long, and its members numbering about 10 were transferred to Court Blanche de Castille.

The first board of officers of the latter court were: Della Brunelle, chief forester; Ames Levasseur, sub chief forester; Anna Champagne, financial secretary; Della L'Amour, treasurer; Emma Demers, recording secretary.

The members of the court are very enthusiastic and always ready to work for the interest of the order. A feature with them is the many entertainments held under their auspices. They are now planning a recruiting contest to be opened some time in July, the closing of which will be a grand observance. The membership role of the court is quite large and a substantial sum of money is in the treasury, for there was not one single death among the members of this court, and

BREAKS RECORD TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

St. Michael's Mission Greatest in History of the Parish

The greatest mission ever held in St. Michael's church will come to a close tomorrow evening when the men who have attended the morning and evening services for the past week will receive the Papal blessing and hear a sermon on "Perseverance" by Rev. Fr. Foley, O. P. The women's mission last week was closed by Rev. Bernard Kelly, O. P., and he will officiate tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock when the men will assemble for final instructions and the blessing. The other member of this remarkable mission band is Rev. Fr. Donohoe, O. P., and the mission has been noted for the eloquence and effectiveness of the discourses given by the preachers. All three are happily possessed of resonant voices and are naturally eloquent. The reputation of the Dominicans as preachers being universal, many men of different religious faiths have attended the services during the week to hear the sermons, and all have been much impressed with the attractive voices of the preachers and their perfect knowledge of human nature. The sermon preached by Rev. Fr. Kelly on "Blasphemy" a few evenings ago is still a leading topic of conversation among the men and undoubtedly will result in an increased membership of the Holy Name society.

Holy Name societies which are now in many parishes throughout the land the most important society of the church. A test of the success of this week's mission came on Thursday evening, the hottest night of the year. It was expected that there would be a falling off, but the church basement and main church were packed and in the main church it was necessary to place seats within the sanctuary. Another test is the number of communicants. It is believed that the men will equal if not outnumber the women in receiving the sacrament, which is most unusual. This evening there will be no sermon, but the Holy Hour service will be held from 7:30 to 8:30. The missionaries will hear confessions throughout the day and expect to have heard all by the close of the Holy Hour service. Frs. Foley, Kelly and Donohoe came here from the Provincial house at Newark, N. J., and after leaving Lowell will give missions at Providence and Newport, R. I. Fr. Foley is a native of South Boston. Kelly is from Louisville, Ky., and studied at the original mother-house of the order, St. Rose monastery, at Springfield, Ky., while Fr. Donohoe is from Newark. They have been steadily engaged on missions since the beginning of the Lenten season and have met with great results. They are deeply grateful for the great crowds which attended the mission at St. Michael's and the constancy with which they have attended all services.

NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

LYNN, May 20.—At the conclusion of a continued hearing in the district court today, Judge Lummus discharged Patrick J. Lyons, a chauffeur, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Samuel Gould, a seven-year-old boy, on May 7. The child was playing in the street and was run over by an automobile operated by Lyons. After the accident Lyons carried the child to a hospital and then surrendered to the police. Witnesses of the accident said in court today that Lyons did everything in his power to avert the accident.

TO TAKE OVER EXPRESS BUSINESS

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Wells Fargo Express Co. has arranged to take over after July 1 the business of the Pacific Express Co., which operates over the Missouri Pacific and its affiliated lines. Missouri Pacific officials said today: "It has been found that the service of the Pacific Express restricted to the Missouri and the affiliated lines was not to the best interest of its shippers and could be better served by an express company reaching practically all the commercial centers in the United States and foreign countries. The related railway interests in the Gould system are making arrangements with Wells Fargo & Co. for a comprehensive improvement of the service on their lines."

LICENSE TRADES

Boston Police to Stop Them

BOSTON, May 20.—The licensing board has put its foot down on speculation in liquor licenses. After Aug. 1 of this year the board for the remainder of the license year will consider no application for the sale of license papers, except in cases of death, bankruptcy or some other imperative reason. This means that there will be a big tumble in the asking price of licenses, which at the present time are quoted from $10,000 to $15,000. After Aug. 1 these licenses will be good only to the persons in whose names they were granted. The license board says that at present there are 20 licenses being carried around by men who are looking for a chance to unload at a good profit. It is this speculation that the board wants to stop. No member of the board would speak last night regarding the latest edict. It is said, however, that several complaints have been received by the board from persons wishing to engage in the liquor business that the price asked for licenses by persons holding them and not wishing to enter into the business themselves was excessive. The board is holding in reserve 15 licenses, some of which it is said, will be granted to the new hotels in process of construction or contemplated. The new order of the board will cause the holders of the unused 20 licenses to either surrender them or go into business. If surrendered to the board it will give the board the opportunity of awarding them at the regulation figures.

BOXING STOPPED

Amateurs Were Placed Under Arrest

NEW YORK, May 20.—Police interference brought the International amateur boxing tournament in Madison square garden to a halt last night after one bout had been decided. The police charged that the bouts were in violation of law as tickets had been sold to non-members of the Pastime Athletic club, which had arranged the tournament. As soon as the first bout had ended, Referee Tim Hurst, the two boxers and eight other persons, including timekeepers and other officials, were placed under arrest. They were taken to the night court, where it was hoped some ruling in the matter might be had to determine whether or not the two nights' tournament could be continued in New York. The promoters seemed doubtful if the bouts scheduled for tonight would be held in the garden in any event. The smaller auditorium of some clubhouse might be selected, it was said. A way out of the difficulty seemed to present itself when the receipt of an offer from the Boston Athletic association to have the tournament in Boston was reported. Up to midnight no decision had been reached in the matter. A representative crowd of boxing enthusiasts had assembled in the garden to watch the bouts, in which amateur sparsers of note in Canada and England were to meet American champions in the various classes. The tournament was a two night's affair, to be concluded today with the finals. An English team of amateur champions in five classes arrived here Sunday to participate. The first preliminary bout last night was in the 115-pound class between William Shandler of the Boys' club of New York and Sam Lowing of Newark, Shandler stopping Lowing in the opening round. As soon as Referee Tim Hurst announced Shandler as the winner, Police Captain Hayes stepped forward and declared that a policeman who was not a member of the club bought a ticket, that the bouts were being held in violation of the law and made the arrests.

BOUTS POSTPONED
NEW YORK, May 20.—Promoters of the International amateur boxing tournament announced today that the series of bouts scheduled for tonight at Madison square garden had been postponed to some date not yet fixed. This action followed the raid made upon the tournament at the opening last night, when eleven officials and boxers were arrested on the charge of aiding and participating in a prize fight. The ground taken by the police is that the promoters broke the law by selling tickets to persons not members of the Pastime Athletic club, which managed the affair. The tournament was the most ambitious attempt to conduct the fighting game on a large scale that had been made here since the passage of the late law.

COMMUNION DAY

OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO-MORROW MORNING

The Knights of Columbus will observe their Communion Sunday, tomorrow morning. Special cars will be taken from Monument square at 7:30 o'clock and the Knights will proceed in a body to the Sacred Heart church where at 8 o'clock mass will be sung by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., chaplain of Lowell council. After the service breakfast will be served and an entertainment given in the school hall.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A brisk selling movement was undertaken when the market opened today. The market leaders were attacked severely by the bear traders but the losses in these issues were confined to small fractions. Some of the less active stocks suffered more severely. Virginia-Carolina Chemical dropped 1 1/2, Westinghouse Electric one and National Lead and National Railways of Mexico second 1/2. Efforts to put up prices were hampered by a further outbreak of liquidation in the fertilizers. Reports regarding the business conditions confronting the companies were not at all promising and there seemed to be some renewal of concentrated bear efforts against the group. Railroad stocks mostly advanced beyond their opening figures. Missouri Pacific was conspicuously heavy. American Locomotive gained 1 and Evansville & Terre Haute five points. The market closed strong. Increased activity and better prices marked the final trading, the active group gaining fractionally over yesterday's closing figures. Rock Island issues were notably strong. The fertilizer stocks made partial recovery from their early declines.

Clearing House Statement

STATEHOOD BILL

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Anticipations of members of the house whose homes are within easy reach of Washington that they might spend the week-end with their families, were rudely shattered yesterday when it was decided that there should be a session today. It was the first Saturday session in many weeks and the statehood resolution to admit Arizona and New Mexico was the only business on the calendar. The measure will constantly be before the house until Tuesday night when it will be called up for passage. The senate was not in session today.

The play which is a rather difficult one for amateurs was rendered with such precision and ensemble that the spectators applauded vigorously. Every part of the representation was well filled, but special mention is due Mr. John J. Quinn and Miss Mary E. Whitley, the leading parties who delighted the audience with their artistic acting. Messrs. Charles Bombardier, John A. Finnegan, Thomas J. Beane, John T. Payne, William C. ## ANNUAL MEETING of Y. M. C. A.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association held its annual meeting at the Calvary Baptist church yesterday afternoon with 80 members in attendance.

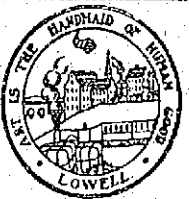

The hostesses were: Mrs. A. R. Ditts, Mrs. W. E. Gardner, Mrs. S. N. Harris and Mrs. Hans Moller.

Mrs. S. W. Cummings conducted the devotional services, her thought being that while some are called to be pastors or teachers, others may start smaller things that will grow and spread. The annual report of the secretary showed a large activity during the year with an unabated interest.

The Woman's Auxiliary assumes $500 of the salary of Mr. Williams, the boys' secretary, and Mrs. Hoyt, treasurer, reported all bills paid and a goodly balance on hand.

Mrs. Mary E. Woodman, treasurer of the building fund, reported that of $5000 pledged at the time of the campaign, there had been paid in $3954.39. Amount receivable $315, leaving a balance of $730.61 to be raised. A balance voted for in 1909, with the auxiliary funds, close this account. The reports of the various committees showed faithful work.

The officers for 1911 and 1912 are: President, Mrs. Frank K. Stearns; honorary vice-president, Mrs. Arlet Kinnear; first vice-president, Mrs. F. M. Perkins; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles F. Fleming; recording secretary, Mrs. C. O. S. Wheeler; corresponding secretary, Miss Nellie French; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Hoyt. Drew, county work secretary, was given the report of the organization of Worcester county.

Sweeping Decision by Supreme Court Affecting Lowell Deeds

All Tax Titles From 1902 to 1908 Inclusive Declared Invalid—Hundreds of Titles Affected

Yesterday afternoon the full bench of the supreme court of Massachusetts sent down a decision in the city tax title cases, so-called. These were three suits brought by Dennis E. Connors, Edward F. Connors and Joseph Walsh against the city of Lowell to recover back money paid by plaintiffs to the city treasurer for tax titles purchased by them in the years 1902 and 1908.

The decision of the supreme court invalidates every tax title in Lowell given between the years 1902 and 1908, inclusive, and most of those given since.

The suits were brought in June 1910 and were heard in September 1910 before Judge Harris in the superior court at Cambridge. Albert S. Howard for the plaintiffs and City Solicitor Duncan for the defendant.

Judge Harris held that most of the titles in question were invalid. The supreme court goes further and holds that many are invalid which Judge Harris held were valid. These cases have been regarded as test cases and the decision will make radical changes in the conduct of the city treasurer's office. The supreme court also holds that it is not legal to publish tax notices in a French newspaper.

In the cases in question Joseph Walsh sought to recover back money for five, Dennis E. Connors for twenty-seven, and Edward F. Connors for ten different tax deeds.

The decision of the supreme court is of the greatest importance because it holds that every tax deed given by the city treasurer from 1902 to 1908, inclusive, is invalid and that most of the deeds given by him in 1909 are invalid.

In 1901 the legislature established a form of tax deed to be used by collectors of taxes in Massachusetts. In 1902 when the revised laws were enacted a new form of tax deed was established with the provision, however, that other suitable forms might be used.

The city treasurer, after this enactment of the revised laws, instead of using the new form continued to use the old form set forth in the statute of 1901 down to and including the year 1908. In 1909 the city treasurer began to use the forms prescribed by the revised laws.

The supreme court holds that the forms prescribed by the statute of 1901 was not a suitable form for use under the provisions of the revised laws.

BARNs WERE SWEEPED AWAY

SCRANTON, Pa., May 20.—A heavy rainstorm in the upper Lackawanna valley today caused the dam of the Archbald Water Co. on White Oak creek to burst. A great torrent of water rushed down the creek, sweeping away barns and outbuildings on its banks and damaging several houses. In Archbald the flood washed away a large section of the Ontario & Western tracks and covered tracks of the Delaware & Hudson company so that train service was suspended until this afternoon. So far as known no persons were caught in the flood.

INDICTMENTS QUASHED

That Were Returned Against "Boss" Cox of Ohio

CINCINNATI, May 20.—Motions to quash the perjury indictments against George R. Cox, the banker and republican politician, made by his attorneys two weeks ago, were granted by Judge Dickson of the common pleas court, who announced his decision in the case today.

Judge Dickson found the indictments defective in substance, this phase of the decision operating to free Cox not only from the indictments in question but also from re-indictment on the same set of alleged facts by any subsequent grand jury.

Cox was indicted on Feb. 1 and his case has been fought before 15 judges of the common pleas circuit and supreme courts of Ohio over various technicalities.

Judge Dickson holds, in substance, that in calling Cox before the grand jury in 1906 and compelling him to testify there and then indicting him

TWO WAYS TO HEAT WATER

WAY No. 1

Start a fire in the coal range, then wait two or three hours for the water in the boiler to become heated. While you are waiting the time may be occupied clearing away the litter and mugs made while starting the fire. All this time the coal range is ambitiously heating the entire house. Not very pleasant on a hot summer day.

WAY No. 2

Use a VULCAN GAS WATER HEATER

Strike a match, turn a valve, and in 5 minutes enough hot water for toilet purposes. In 10 minutes enough for dish washing. In 20 minutes enough for a bath.

Needless to say which way is most convenient.

Shall we send a representative or a booklet?

A postal will bring either.

CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

Hearing on the Location to be a Lively One

It is expected that the hearing to be given by the city council in joint convention to persons opposed to the location of a contagious disease hospital on the site selected by the contagious hospital commission, next Tuesday night, will be a very lively one.

Fred W. Jenness, one of the remonstrants, was a caller at the city hall this forenoon and he was very positive that the hospital would not be erected on the site selected by a majority of the commission. Mr. Jenness said there seemed to be too much personal feeling in the matter of a location and he was surprised that professional men should display temper in a matter of business so important to property owners.

"I am free to admit that I did not follow this matter closely enough in the beginning," said Mr. Jenness, "but when the proposition was made to locate the hospital at the city farm I thought the commission had in mind the site now advocated by Dr. McCarthy. So far as doctors are concerned I have no choice in an argument of this kind and I can lean only to the man who leans to right and common sense."

"In this matter Dr. McCarthy is in the minority, but he is in the right just the same. He was, at first, in favor of the site now favored by other members of the commission, but when he realized that he had made a mistake he was man enough to say so.

The property owners or persons living in Chelmsford street in the vicinity of the city farm do not want to see a hospital of this kind stuck up in front of their homes. There is no need to build the hospital there where there is another and a larger lot at their disposal on the same premises. The other lot is well back and away from the street and houses. Any man who has any knowledge of real estate knows that property in the vicinity of the city farm would deteriorate if a hospital should be built on the site selected by the commission. Dr. Martin says there is no danger of contagion from the hospital. If there is no danger of contagion, then there is no need for a contagious disease hospital.

"We do not propose to stand for the erection of a hospital on the proposed site. I do not want to and would not oppose anything that is a public necessity, and while this matter of a contagious hospital may be a necessity, it is not necessary that it should be built on the site selected by the contagious hospital commission. The public ought not to suffer because of any feeling between members of the commission and the man who would build a hospital upon the proposed site should put themselves in the place of a property owner there and ask themselves if they, as property owners, would want a contagious disease hospital at their front door."

FRENCH CAMP ATTACKED

THE CEMETERIES

To be Searched for Missing Girl

NASHUA, N. H., May 20.—Last night it was proposed to organize a systematic search of the woods and fields, ponds and streams in the vicinity of Nashua for Miss Blanche S. Willoughby, but the conviction is general and is shared by members of the girl's family that Miss Willoughby did not enter the Merrimack river at all.

It is believed that after leaving her hat, coat and gloves on the bank she wandered away and either committed suicide elsewhere or is still in the woods or some place of concealment.

Yesterday her father, James H. Willoughby, and her affianced husband, Capt. Harrison D. Swain, went to Hudson and personally searched the woods around one of the cemeteries. It had been a custom of Miss Willoughby every May to visit the grave of a very dear girl friend in that town. It was thought that if the woman answering Miss Willoughby's description seen by the railroad men Monday night was she, she might have wandered in an unbalanced state of mind to her friend's grave and, becoming more deranged, have stayed there.

The police have investigated a clew which was brought to them by Augustus E. Schofield of Front street, who said he saw a young woman hatless and with disheveled hair in Edgewood cemetery.

YOUTH USED GUN

Tried to Shoot His Father After Wounding Himself

John Coullis, aged 20, years, and living at 477 Market street, fired a bullet through his left little finger this morning, and then attempted to kill his father, Angelos Coullis. The young man however was arrested by Officer George Abbott before doing further harm.

Angelos Coullis, the father, runs a shoemaker's shop at the corner of Market and Jefferson streets, and his son John is in his employ. They both live over the shop. At 9:45 o'clock this morning John left the shop and went upstairs to eat breakfast. While his father continued working.

A few minutes later the father's attention was attracted by a woman on the second floor who was shouting that John had killed himself. He ran up the stairs and there found John lying on the floor with a 38 calibre revolver in his right hand, and a bullet wound in the little finger of the left hand. When the boy saw his father enter the room, he quickly got up on his feet and aimed the revolver at him. The latter, however, sprang upon his son and grabbing him by the throat, after a long struggle, held him till Officer Abbott, who happened to be nearby, and heard the shouts, took hold of him. The revolver is of the 38 calibre type and contained five shells, two of which were empty. After a severe examination on the part of the officer it was disclosed that only one shot had been fired in the room, and that was the one that penetrated John's finger, and lodged itself into the wall.

The prisoner was sent to police headquarters and arraigned before Judge Hadley on a complaint of threatening his father. The young man when asked if he was guilty of the charge preferred against him, answered in good English "I was mad and wanted to hit my father." After hearing the testimony of the father, the court ordered the defendant to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for a term of six months. The required bonds were not furnished and John was committed. Before going to jail the prisoner was treated by Dr. Smith.

LASTERS HOLD CONFERENCE

The proposition is that the strikers return to work pending the settlement of differences by arbitration, the board of arbitration to be either a state or local body.

EMPEROR LEAVES LONDON

LONDON, May 20.—Emperor William, Empress Auguste and Princess Victoria Louise left here today to rejoin the imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Sheerness from which port they will depart for home tomorrow, after an apparently heartily enjoyed visit to the British capital. The imperial visitors spent the week here more like tourists than members of royalty, having devoted all their spare time to sightseeing, at the picture galleries, zoological gardens and museums and at the naval and military tournaments. While out driving or walking they conducted themselves with a remarkable absence of formality. King George and Queen Mary, together with other members of royal families in London, bade farewell to the imperial family at the railroad station in the precincts of which big crowds gave the emperor and empress a hearty send-off.

TO BUILD DREADNOUGHTS

LONDON, May 20.—The English tenders for the construction of two Chilean dreadnoughts have been accepted, according to the London Evening News which says today that definite orders for two battleships of 26,000 tons will be placed here soon. One of the English tenders is said to have been $1,000,000 below the next lowest bid. The ships are to be named the Libertad and the Constitution and will be armed with twelve heavy guns.

THE STATE BALL MAN WAS KILLED

Was a Very Brilliant While Trying to Enter Neighbor's House

LONDON, May 20.—The first state ball of the reign of King George, the date for which was selected in honor of the visit of the German Emperor and Empress, was held at Buckingham Palace last night. It was an unusually brilliant function.

King George and Emperor William had dined together at the palace with the royal family, and afterward were joined by 30 additional members of the royal household, who formed into a magnificent procession. The king and emperor, respectively in German and British uniforms, preceded the state officials, in gorgeous robes and carrying their wands of office, through the whole length of the state apartments to the ballroom, where thousands of guests had gathered, including Whitehall, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid, and the diplomatic corps.

Queen Mary and the Empress Augusta Victoria and all the ladies wore lavish displays of jewelry. Emperor William took as his partner Queen Mary and King George the German Empress. The Duke of Connaught and Princess Victoria-Louise opened the ball with the "Royal Quadrille." Midnight saw a repetition of the gorgeous procession, this time from the ballroom to the supper room.

Queen Mary's coronation was like a masterpiece of diamonds. The German Empress wore a diamond crown. The lending processes all wore costly displays. The Duchess of Westminster, Manchester and Roxburgh were notable. Every man present, with the sole exception of Ambassador Reid, was in uniform. Miss Mabel Choate, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, went with Mr. and Mrs. Reid to the ball.

HUKWANG LOAN

FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROADS SIGNED

PEKING, May 20.—The Hukwang loan for the construction of railroads in the provinces of Hunan and Hupai was signed here today by the representatives of the American, British, French and German groups of banks. Besides providing for the original amount of $30,000,000, provision is made in the agreement for an extra $20,000,000 should that additional sum be needed for the completion of the project.

Bankers here are of the opinion that the Hukwang loan is the most important financial transaction ever signed in China. It provides for the construction of 1,200 miles of railroad in Hunan and Hupai and loan is secured by the revenues of those provinces, which, in case of default, may be administered by the marine customs.

DOMESTIC JARS

Heard by Judge Hadley This Morning

The police court session was rather brief this morning, as there were but a few cases, and Judge Hadley disposed of them in about 45 minutes.

Manuel Foster pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with threatening his wife, and was ordered to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for six months. Mrs. Foster testified that last Thursday her husband threw a cup at her and later threatened her badly harm. She also said that he was in the habit of getting intoxicated every Saturday, and that she was afraid of him. Manuel had nothing to say and the above sentence was imposed.

Non-support

Geo. Marcotte, who allowed that he was not treating his wife as he should by pleading guilty to a charge of non-support, was given a probation term with the understanding that he will pay $4 per week for the care of his wife and child. The wife in the course of testimony said that she was living with her mother who is supporting her. The husband refuses to care for his own behalf said he was willing to care for his better half as long as she would keep away from her mother entirely.

However, the court ordered the defendant to pay $4 per week to the probation officer for the care of Mrs. Marcotte.

Drunkness

Catherine Martin and John J. Fox were both sentenced after pleading guilty to charges of drunkness. Walter Wilson, a young man aged 20 years, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkness and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. Patrolman Lemay and Breault testified that the young man was frequently under the influence of liquor and that he did not work. Two first offenders were released by the probation officer, and two others were fined $2 each.

SUPREME COURT

Says That Kiss Is Worth $500

PROVIDENCE, May 20.—The supreme court yesterday said that Mrs. Susan E. Chapin was entitled to $500 from Mardiros M. Stone, a business man, for a kiss.

On the momentous question Chief Justice Doolittle handed down two opinions sustaining the award of the jury in the superior court. The request of Stone for a new trial was refused on the ground that he failed to specify wherein the jury did not give him a fair and impartial trial. The chief justice denounces the filing of omnibus petitions as was done in the case of the defendant.

The form of action in the kissing case was assault. Mrs. Chapin claimed that she went into the defendant's store and that he came up behind her, seized her by the arms and implanted a kiss on her face. The case went to the supreme court in the first instance on the defendant's bill of exception, which was overruled and judgment was ordered entered on the verdict.

AMERICAN FLAG

PRESENTED TO WEST LONDON STREET SCHOOL

The members of B. F. Butler, W. H. C., presented a flag to the West London street school yesterday afternoon with appropriate exercises. Miss Margaret Chase, granddaughter of Gilbert E. Chase, a veteran, and a granddaughter of Thomas Doyle, also a veteran, was the flag bearer. Mrs. Elizabeth W. Worben, patriotic instructor, presented the flag in a few well chosen words, and superintendent of schools, A. K. Whitcomb, responded, and at the same time gave a very interesting talk to the children. An interesting program consisting of violin and cornet solos, and also songs in German and Portuguese by students of the schools was given. The exercises were brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," "Flag Salute" and "America."

TWO ARE GUILTY

Gardiner and Phillips Convicted for Smuggling in Chinese

BOSTON, May 20.—A verdict of guilty was returned in the U. S. district court last night against George M. D. Gardiner of Weymouth and Goodman Phillips of Boston, two of the four defendants accused of conspiracy to smuggle Chinese into this country from Japan. The latter has been convicted twice before on Chinese smuggling cases.

Dr. Gin Fuy Moy of Woodliffe Lake, N. J., a former Chinese interpreter at the immigration office in Boston, and Capt. Harvey C. Daly of Orient Heights were acquitted.

The jury retired at 4:30 yesterday afternoon after Judge Dodge had delivered the charge. He told the jury men they must consider the case of each of the accused separately, and render a verdict against those who, in their minds, had been connected with the conspiracy to smuggle in Chinese in violation of the U. S. laws.

The jury returned at 8:30 with the verdict. The wives of all four of the defendants were present. Mrs. Moy, the American wife of the Chinese defendant, embraced her husband with tears in her eyes and then ran to Robert W. Moore of New York, Moy's counsel, and wrung his hand.

Mrs. Daly beamed with pleasure as she ran to her husband after his discharge by the court. Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Phillips went silently as they made their way to the dock.

Guy A. Ham, counsel for both the convicted men, asked of Judge Dodge for time to prepare the exceptions he had taken during the trial for an appeal. This was readily granted.

Gardiner and Phillips were remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal Phillips under $5000 bail and Gardiner under $3000.

During the day Dr. Moy, the only one of the defendants to take the stand, concluded his testimony. He said he knew at once after seeing Clyde E. Ambrose that the latter was connected with the United States department of justice. Dr. Moy said he knew of no conspiracy to smuggle Chinamen.

Mrs. Moy testified briefly.

Harvey H. Pratt, counsel for Capt. Daly, and Robert M. Moore of New York, counsel for Dr. Moy, made brief arguments. Mr. Ham spoke about a hour and declared that the government had not made out a case. Assistant United States District Attorney Gardiner argued for the government.

School With a History Almost Completed

Five Town Meetings, An Investigation and An Injunction Were Preliminary to Its Start—Chelmsford Iron Foundry Is Going Along Busily

The new schoolhouse in Highland avenue, North Chelmsford, is fast nearing completion under the supervision of Architect Henry L. Rourke and when ready for the reception of the children at the opening of the fall term will be found to be one of the prettiest and most convenient school buildings to be found in any country town in New England.

The school will stand as a monument to the vicissitudes of town meeting legislation. It took five special town meetings, a couple of injunctions and an investigation by the selectmen before the $17,500 necessary for its erection was available.

One of the flourishing industries of North Chelmsford is children and for several years they have been multiplying much faster than schoolhouses and accommodations could be afforded for them. At a baby show held by St. John's church a few years ago there were families of from 10 to 14 children present and the proud parents who showed up with only six and seven children were obliged to go way back and sit down. Thus for the past few years the north village has been in bad for schoolhouse accommodations. One grade was and may still be found in the top of the freestone where there is a dangerous flight of stairs, another grade holds forth in the abandoned armory of Troop F in the town hall, another undesirable place, while a third grade has to journey to West Chelmsford and make use of an extra room in that village, a most unsatisfactory arrangement.

Thus the matter of a new school for North Chelmsford came up at the regular meeting of the town March 23, 1910. A committee of three was appointed to look up sites at the north village. The committee started in by calling an informal meeting of the citizens of North Chelmsford to discuss the matter.

The meeting at first proved to be a case of many men of many minds. Some wanted the Parker lot near the town hall, a site with no houses near it. Others desired the Stevens lot in Slab City, the extreme upper end of the town, while others wanted the centrally-located McEnany lot in Highland avenue. James P. Dunnigan finally asked the committee what site they preferred and after a conference they replied that they liked the Parker lot. Then the meeting took a vote on the Parker lot and the majority declared for the Parker lot although there was a strenuous minority.

Meanwhile the promoters of the McEnany lot canvassed the town with the result that at the first special town meeting on the matter held May 28, 1910, the town voted to appropriate meeting acted illegally in not using the town check lists. Accordingly on October 11th, the fifth special town meeting was held at which Mr. Mallory introduced a motion calling for the use of the check lists and the motion was carried by a vote of 137 to 115. In the interim between the fourth and the fifth town meetings the selectmen held a formal investigation of the charges made by Messrs. Mallory and Buchanan to the effect that minors and non-residents had voted at the meeting and found these charges unfounded and so reported to the fifth meeting. After the passage of the vote calling for the use of the check lists a set of tellers was appointed and a code taken on the proposition to appropriate $17,500 for the erection of the school on the McEnany lot. The money was appropriated by a large majority after nearly one year's wrangling. Subsequently there was a tie-up over the awarding of the contracts, but finally Miner and O'Neil were given the carpentering work, and Thomas Murphy, the plumber, both North Chelmsford firms, and the work was finally started.

The new school is a four room building with a central entrance leading into a corridor, connecting with a nine-foot corridor in rear of school leading to two side entrances. In the center of the main corridor facing the central entrance is the principal's room with toilet and book storage connecting. This arrangement of the principal's room gives him a good view of everything going on in the corridor.

Each class room is provided with a wardrobe for boys and girls, and all necessary book cases, closets, etc. The class rooms are sheathed 2 feet, 6 inches high with chalk trough at top and 4 feet, 6 inch slate black board above.

The second floor is the same as the first with this exception, the principal's room is omitted and a teacher's room with toilet is provided for, over the central entrance on first floor.

The basement is divided up for the girls' play room and toilets in the east side with a staircase from first floor and a staircase to the yard. The west side is divided for boys' play room and toilets with stair case from first floor and area entrance to yard. The boiler is a steam heating boiler placed under the central portion of the building. The coal pockets are outside along finely at present with prospects bright for a busy summer. There are about 30 men working on full time at the present time. The foundry has just completed an ornamental staircase for the new Boston college at Newton, Mass., and has shipped away 31 tons of stairways for that building. The company is doing ornamental iron work here at the Opera House on Wednesday evening, May 24 in his new musical comedy, "Jumping Jupiter," which is reliably described as the biggest laughing show of the season. Mr. Carle evolved "Jumping Jupiter" from the well-known farce, "The Purple Lady," by Sydney Rosenfeld, adapting it to the ends of musical comedy and to his own peculiar talents and individuality. The music is by Karl Hoschna, the famous composer of "Girl of My Dreams," "Three Twins," etc., and possesses all the melodic charm and spirit that characterizes all the Hoschna music. Carle and "Jumping Jupiter" come direct from a two months' run to crowded and approving houses in Boston.

The company that Mr. Carle has gathered around him in "Jumping Jupiter" has been described as the model musical comedy cast, and in his capacity as author he has been generous to his associates. Heading the company is Dainty Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged) who is fortunate in having the best role that has fallen to her lot since "Florodora." Will H. Philbrick, an unctuous low comedian; Joseph C. Miron, he of the subterranean voice; Ina Claire, a youthful and very talented girl who has made a great reputation as an imitator; Burrell Barbaretto, singer and dancer; Helen May, prima donna; Jessie Cardoville, dancer; Lester Crawford, John Goldsworthy, Helen Raymond, Isabelle Winlocke and others. There are no chorus girls in "Jumping Jupiter," but instead a dozen beautiful and talented young women have been entrusted with small roles.

Frazee & Lederer, who are now Mr. Carle's managers, (they also are the producers of "Madame Sherry") have given "Jumping Jupiter" a really beautiful and tasteful production, which will be shown here in all its newness and freshness. Miss Hopper's gowns speak the very latest word in advance fashions, and the other feminine members of the cast are gowned up to the minute. Seats today.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Hathaway theatre reopened this afternoon most auspiciously and a large audience attended the opening performance and was impressed with the delightful temperature of the theatre due to the new cooling plant installed during the week under the direction of Mr. Kennedy of Boston, the well known expert on ventilation. It was the intention of the management to reopen last Tuesday but the cooling plant in the theatre was found to have entailed its usefulness and the opening was postponed until a new plant could be put in. The new company gave a very smooth first performance of Eugene O'Neill's thrilling drama of the Canadian Northwest, "The Wolf," a play that has been the great dramatic hit of the past few seasons. A review of the performance will appear in a later issue. At the head of the new company which is unquestionably one of the strongest stock companies ever seen in Lowell is Mortimer Snow, a leading man with a well established reputation throughout the country. Supporting him is Miss Lillian Lee Anderson, one of the most popular leading women in stock and who stands at the head of her profession in emotional acting. The leading couple is surrounded by an eminent aggregation of players, and the stage is in charge of Mr. James Boshell, an expert in stage management.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Another high-class series of entertainers have been engaged for next week's bill at the Merrimack Square theatre. The headliners are William S. Marlon and Miss Vera Rial presenting what is programed as their "psychic novelty tabloid," a 20-minute dramatic sketch entitled "The Witch's Power." This presentation is said to be one of the most entertaining of its kind on the vaudeville stage today. Both possess unusual dramatic power and their sketch gives them ample opportunity to display their unusual skill.

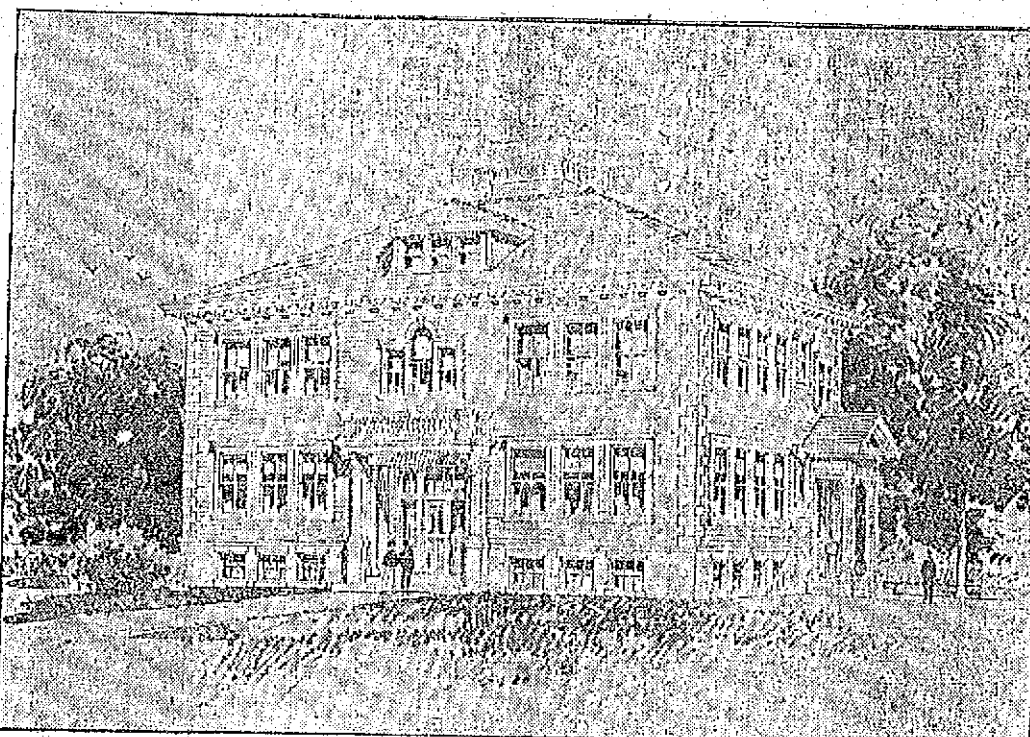

Jack Lyle, in his original comedy songs and stories, is sure to win a place in the hearts of local theatre-goers. Lyle has a good fund of funny sayings and his stories are rich in humor and told in a manner that is sure to please. His work as a comedian has always been considered of a high standard. Fields and Hanson were booked for a run at Keith and Proctor's theatre in New York City but because of a contract with the Merrimack Square theatre they were obliged to put off their

THE NEW SCHOOL AT NORTH CHELMSFORD

From Drawing by Henry L. Rourke, Architect.

$1650 for the purchase of the McEnany lot, the vote being 48 to 0, while the sum of $13,500 was appropriated for the building of a four-room schoolhouse. A building committee consisting of Capt. J. Adams Bartlett, Stewart Mackay and J. F. McManamin was appointed to build the school and they submitted their views to Architect Henry L. Rourke, who prepared plans according to their views and specifications. Builders were then asked to figure on the plans and it was found that the building could be constructed according to plans and specifications for $13,500, but would require at least $4000 more.

On August 5th the second town meeting was held and it was voted to appropriate the additional $4000. But the opponents of the McEnany lot had never ceased to work against the proposition and on August 22 a third town meeting was held at which it was voted by a vote of 76 to 54 to rescind the former action and they voted to purchase the McEnany lot.

After a week's log-rolling a fourth special town meeting was called on September 4th, at which by a vote of 74 to 27 it was voted to appropriate $17,500 for the erection of the building on the McEnany lot.

This aroused Frank E. Mallory and James Buchanan to a protest against the action of the meeting, claiming that the vote was passed illegally as some voted who were not voters. They consulted counsel and the latter issued an injunction restraining the town treasurer from negotiating any loan for the school, while the town treasurer also claimed that the main building under the principal's room. The remainder of the basement is used for the air chambers and janitor's room. The plumbing fixtures for the boys' and girls' toilets are arranged so that they are well lighted and ventilated.

The drainage is carried to a dry well located in the school yard. From the boiler room is an incline to the yard so that the janitor can run out the ash barrels.

The school is laid out for an eight foot basement with twelve foot stories for class rooms. The outside walls of the building are clapboarded and the roof is of Mansion slate.

The walls of the corridors and class rooms are to be sheathed and finished in North Carolina pine. The corridor and class room floors are of maple. The plaster walls and ceilings to be painted.

Has Ample Playgrounds
The superintendent of schools in his last report complimented the town upon the selection of the McEnany lot because of the opportunity given for recreation grounds. The new school will have a larger playground than all the other schools of the town together. At the centre the children are obliged to go over to the common for recreation.

Chelmsford Iron Foundry
After a long period of dull business, the Chelmsford Iron foundry is going work exclusively at its North Chelmsford foundry.

The Other Industries
Business is rather slack at the Lowell foundry at present, but plant working but four days per week. George C. Moore's scouring mills are quite busy and likewise the Lowell Textile company which uses a part of George C. Moore's plant for the manufacture of towels.

For Board of Trade
A meeting of several well known citizens of North Chelmsford was held at the home of Dr. F. E. Varney last Wednesday evening for the purpose of starting a movement for the organization of a town board of trade. The proposition was carefully discussed but no definite action was taken owing to the fact that several citizens who were invited were unable to attend. It was decided to hold a general meeting at the lower town hall on Thursday, May 25th, to which all interested citizens are invited. Dr. Varney will preside.

THE OPERA HOUSE

Fresh from its second triumphant engagement at the Colonial theatre, Boston, "The Arcadians" comes to the Opera House on May 23d with all the clever artists, beautiful music, graceful dancers, clean fun and exquisite stage effects that contribute to make this one of the most notable of musical comedy productions. All of Mr. Chas. Frohman's clever dancers, singers and comedians who have helped to make "The Arcadians" famous will be seen here. Dainty Julia Sanderson will be heard in "Bring Me a Rose," "The Girl With a Brogue" and "Charming Weather," golden-voiced Ethel Cadman will sing of the "Pipes of Pan" and "Arcady," little Mary Mackillop will ask you to "Do Step the Two-Step," Percival Knight will explain in song about "My Mother," while Frank Monahan, as the deliciously funny English caterer, who falls into the Well of Truth and becomes, temporarily, an Arcadian, will add to the joy of the performance by his agile dances and his irrepressible fun.

For the benefit of those who did not see "The Arcadians" in Boston or New York, it might be explained here that the plot hinges upon the adventures of London caterer who falls from his airship into Arcadia, a land that Father Time had overlooked, where no one ever grew old and where no one ever told a lie. Smith is made an Arcadian in face and form and with two Arcadian nymphs visits London in the vain attempt to reform that wicked city. The adventures of these guileless people in the London metropolis afford innumerable opportunities for fun and song and dance. The beautiful artistic scenery and the wonderful costumes of "The Arcadians" have lost none of their freshness and daintiness because of the long run of that play.—Adv.

LAND QUESTION IN ENGLAND

Following the example of Ireland in affording the people an opportunity to become the owners of their holdings, there is a movement in England to enable the tenants to purchase and to compel the landlords to sell under certain conditions. There is a land bill before parliament at the present time, making provision for a liberal advance to the tenants to enable them purchase their holdings. There is a real land question in England and one of greater proportions in Scotland where the "crofters" have to depend almost entirely upon the land for a living. A nation of peasant proprietors will be a stronger, more patriotic and more prosperous nation than one made up mainly of tenants who have little interest in the improvement of their holdings because they have to pay rent forever.

QUEER MILK DECISION

The supreme court of Massachusetts seems to have very liberal ideas in regard to the liquid offered for sale as milk. In an opinion just handed down, the full bench sustains a Vermont company in offering for sale condensed milk diluted with water, cream and skimmed milk. Milk of this kind can be kept for six months if necessary and then diluted to the consistency of milk. The milk inspector of Boston says that the city will be flooded with condensed milk, and the fact that there is now an epidemic of tonsillitis, said to be due to the milk supply, may have some bearing on the case.

It is true the supreme court holds that there was no evidence to show that the defendant company in this case offered this preparation for sale as natural milk. The sale is evidently permitted as is that of butterine or oleomargarine, but if that be the contention then under the provisions of the pure food laws every bottle or can should be plainly labelled "condensed milk," "diluted milk," "doctored milk," "adulterated milk," or whatever the proper designation should be.

LOWELL'S DEMAND FOR A NEW CHARTER

The people of Lowell bearing that the legislature enacted the Cambridge charter are encouraged to believe that it will also enact the Lowell charter, inasmuch as this city is in much greater need of a new charter than is Cambridge.

Since the charter hearing was held here a number of things have occurred, not only in our city council but outside to convince the voters that a new charter is an imperative necessity if our city is to be given an equal chance of prosperity with the other cities of the state. No city can afford to have to appeal to the courts every little while to compel its double-headed city council to do business. Under the commission charter the voters could regulate all such matters without going to the courts. Time and again has it been demonstrated that the common council is not only unnecessary but an obstruction to the prompt and judicious transaction of the city's business.

The people of Lowell want a charter that will enable them to build a public hall if they want one without waiting half a dozen years to settle a matter that a few business men would settle in two weeks. We want a charter that will centre responsibility so that the people will know where to carry their complaints and know where to place the praise or blame for what is best and worst in the municipal administration. We want a government that will respond to the will of the people, something in which the present charter is wholly deficient. The people can elect their officers under the present charter but they have no control over them after election. What is wanted is a charter that will give the people not only the power of electing their public officials but also of controlling those officials after election. This power is given in the recall which enables the voters to retire an official once he proves recreant to his duty. In the initiative and referendum the people are given the additional power of initiating any law that is desirable and which their elected officials fail to enact. The referendum gives them the power of defeating any bad legislation before it can take effect. Thus the commission charter is the most democratic charter ever devised because it places the power absolutely in the hands of the people, and this clatter about its taking power away from the people is nothing but political humbug pulped forth to mislead the people.

In these days of scientific progress and widespread competition every city must be in a position to make the best of its opportunities, to develop its resources and provide as best it may for the peace, prosperity and happiness of its people; but this it cannot do under an antiquated charter such as that under which we now try to do business.

We feel that the legislature should realize the situation and give the people of Lowell an opportunity to select a different and a better form of government if the majority so decide. There is a question of home rule involved and one which the legislature should also recognize. Lowell was before the legislature two years ago asking for a new charter but the demand was refused. If the present petition for a new charter be also refused, the citizens will ask, "What is the use of trying to secure better government since we are handicapped by a legislature which binds us down to a city charter that is nearly half a century old?" We are now a city of 100,000, and it is high time we should get away from the provincialism which has held us down in the past and which unless quickly cast off will prove a handicap to our future progress.

This charter is not, as has been alleged, the concoction of any clique. It is little different from the general form of commission charter adopted by over a hundred cities in this country and likely soon to be adopted by a large proportion of the cities of our own state. It is to be hoped that the people of Lowell will be given a chance to vote upon this important question of changing the organic law of our city.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Harvard professor who says that ten cents a day is enough for food completely overlooks the fact that you can't get strawberry shortcake for less than fifteen cents at any of the restaurants.

White lies aren't always so white as they are painted.

A TRIBUTE TO THE ANIMALS
As a specimen of Tupper's work at his best, may be given the following lines from "Of Cruelty to Animals."

Earth and her million tribes are cursed for thy sake,
Earth and her million tribes still writhe beneath thy cruelty;
Liveth there but one among the million that shall not bear witness against thee?

A pensioner of land or air or sea that hath not whereof it will accuse thee?

From the elephant toiling at a launch to the shrew-mouse in the harvest-field,

From the whale which the harpooner hath stricken, to the minnow caught upon a pin.

From the albatross, wearied in its flight, to the wren in her covered nest,

From the death moth and lace-winged dragon fly to the lady bird and the ant.

The verdict of all things is unanimous, finding their master cruel:

The dog, thy humble friend, thy trusting, honest friend;

The ass, thine uncomplaining slave, fludging from morn to even;

The lamb, and the timorous hare, and the laboring ox at plow;

The speckled trout basking in the shallow, and the partridge gleaming in the stubble;

And the stag at bay, and the wren in thy path, and the wild bird pining in captivity,

And all things that minister alike to thy life and thy comfort and thy profit—

Teetily with one sad voice that man is a cruel master.

The first man to arrive at an evening party always makes up his mind that he will go slower next time.

A man is absolutely without redress

Time heals all our wounds, as it dims all our joys;

I've loved, and I've worked in the sweat of my brow;

I used to go out for a time with the boys—

O, I was a sport—but I'm over it now! I sit in the evening of life and look back

On the furrows of life I was anxious to plow,

And only one thing I can feel that I lack—

Ah, once I was young—but I'm over it now!

That's all back—

The youth that is fled—but I'm over it now!

when somebody makes the remark that the new baby looks just like him.

Almost any man is pleased at getting two per cent. off for cash, even if five per cent. is added to the amount of the bill when it is made out to make the discount possible.

Of course it is too much to expect that your neighbor will haul his heavy garden roller over to your house when he lends it to you, but if you keep it long enough perhaps he will be glad to haul it home.

When a woman asks a man: "Will you promise to do something for me?" without explaining what it is, the only thing for him to do is to say, "Sure," promptly, and then trust to luck to get out of it. If it is something that he doesn't want to do.

Practice, they say, makes perfect; but the fact remains that the more a man coughs, the worse he coughs.

If everybody should keep his place up the way the neighbors think he ought to, how great an improvement in the appearance of the city there would be!

GETTING OVER IT.

I once was in love with a peach of a girl.

Kind that the story books tell you about—

My heart was a furnace, my head was a whirl.

O, I was a lover beyond any doubt! I pleaded my cause and she listened awhile.

Then laughed at my passion and jeered every vow.

I swore I would die in a tragical style, but I didn't, and so—I'm over it now!

And once I saved up like a thrifty old soul.

Preparing myself for the rainiest day. Until I had gathered together a roll that I couldn't carry—I needed a dray.

Yes, I was full wealthy, I dreamed it would last.

A hope which my destiny wouldn't allow.

I look with a sigh at the wreck of my past.

For I once was flush—but I'm over it now!

Time heals all our wounds, as it dims all our joys;

I've loved, and I've worked in the sweat of my brow;

I used to go out for a time with the boys—

O, I was a sport—but I'm over it now! I sit in the evening of life and look back

On the furrows of life I was anxious to plow,

And only one thing I can feel that I lack—

Ah, once I was young—but I'm over it now!

That's all back—

The youth that is fled—but I'm over it now!

He was born in Oxford, Chenango county, N. Y., and when a young man entered the Delaware, N. Y., Literary Institute, beginning his educational work immediately after he was graduated from the institute. In 1853 he was graduated from Williams College. Two years later Mr. Horton became instructor in natural sciences under the Rev. Dr. George Kerr, and soon after principal of the Walton, N. Y., academy. In 1861 he again became associated with Dr. Kerr, first as professor of botany and physics in the New York State Agricultural College of Ovid, N. Y., and next associate principal in the Jefferson County Institute, N. Y. In the Agricultural College he remained but one year, due to the fact that a majority of the pupils enlisted in the Civil war. In 1864 Mr. Horton became principal of the Oneida, N. Y., seminary. He applied himself to the study of law and in 1869 was admitted to the bar. He also served as principal of the high school at Williamsport, Pa., and later became superintendent of schools in that city. In 1886 he was superintendent of schools at Towanda, Pa., and from 1883 to 1890 was School Commissioner of Chenango county, New York. For the last fourteen years he had lived in Glen Ridge, his wife and two sons survive him, one of the latter, John M. Horton, being connected with the Chemical bank, in New York.

"I have been looking all through the house end of the capitol," said Captain Emerson Brooks of the Cayuga, N. Y., regt., "trying to find a painting of Theodore Pomeroy, who was the speaker of the house. I find portraits of all other speakers almost from the beginning of things congressional, but none of Pomeroy. Now, our townsman Pomeroy was very proud of the fact that he had served as speaker of the house, even if his term was so short as a single day. That day began March 3, 1869, and he served until the new house was organized on March 4, following the inauguration of Grant and Colfax. You may recall that Colfax had been speaker for a long time, and resigned both as speaker and as member of the house the day before he was made vice-president. That accounts for the one day tenure of the speakership which fell to our friend Pomeroy, who was chosen by the house to preside. He had served several terms as a member of the house, and his congressional service ended when he laid down the gavel after one day as speaker. Pomeroy was a very prominent man locally up our way and had held other positions of honor, but none had given him the pleasure that was afforded by that one day in the speaker's chair. He was a comparatively young man when he left congress, but did not seem to yearn for further political honors."

In the beautiful little city of the dead in the historic city of Eddyville, Ky., is a plain slab bearing the inscription "Murdered in cold blood by Martin Bigwood and Hyman Skinner." This was erected by the widow, Mrs. Catherine Bigwood, who was a very prominent man locally up our way and had held other positions of honor, but none had given him the pleasure that was afforded by that one day in the speaker's chair. He was a comparatively young man when he left congress, but did not seem to yearn for further political honors."

In the marble cemetery at Frankfort on a classic marble column may be found the name and a brief record of the life of Solomon P. Sharp, and at the close may be found the significant words: "Slashed to death while extending the hand of hospitality." Mr. Sharp, at the time of his death in the early part of the last century, was one of the most prominent men of his age in the state. He was killed by his former friend and protégé, Jacobson Bagley, who was a member of the family feud, and partisans of each side may be found to this day.

Some famous jewels will be seen at the coronation of King George V. It is estimated that the value of the apparel and ornaments worn by the Westminster Abbey will exceed $50,000,000.

The value of the regalia was calculated at $15,000,000 at the commencement of King Edward's reign. It then ranked second in value only to that of the Russian emperor. Since that time the Cullinan diamonds and other jewels have been added to the regalia. The actual market value of the famous South African stones is probably not less than $10,000,000.

There will be present at the coronation between 750 and 800 peeresses and dowager peeresses, all of whom will wear their finest gowns. Some of

St. Michael's Mission Greatest in History of the Parish

The greatest mission ever held in St. Michael's church will come to a close tomorrow evening when the men who have attended the morning and evening services for the past week will receive the Papal blessing and hear a sermon on "Perseverance" by Rev. Fr. Foley, O. P. The women's mission last week was closed by Rev. Bernard Kelly, O. P., and he will officiate tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock when the men will receive the Papal blessing and hear the blessing. The other member of this remarkable mission band is Rev. Fr. Donohoe, O. P., and the mission has been noted for the eloquence and effectiveness of the discourses given by the preachers. All three are happily possessed of resonant voices and are naturally eloquent. The reputation of the Dominicans as preachers being universal, many men of different religious faiths have attended the services during the week to hear the sermons, and all have been much impressed with the attractive voices of the preachers and their perfect knowledge of human nature. The sermon preached by Rev. Fr. Kelly on "Perseverance" a few evenings ago is still a leading topic of conversation among the men and undoubtedly will result in an increased membership of the Holy Name society.

It will be recalled that it was a Dominican, Rev. Charles Hyacinth McKenna, O. P., now in the west who traversed the country organizing the Holy Name societies which are now in many parishes throughout the land the most important society of the church. A test of the success of this week's mission came on Thursday evening, the hottest night of the year. It was expected that there would be a falling off, but the church basement and main church were packed and in the main church it was necessary to place seats within the sanctuary. Another test is the number of communicants. It is believed that the men will equal if not outnumber the women in receiving the sacrament, which is most unusual. This evening there will be no sermon, but the Holy Hour service will be held from 7.30 to 8.30. The missionaries will hear confessions throughout the day and expect to have heard all by the close of the Holy Hour service. Frs. Foley, Kelly and Donohoe came here from the Provincial house at Newark, N. J., and after leaving Lowell will give missions at Providence and Newport, R. I. Fr. Foley is a native of South Boston. Fr. Kelly is from Louisville, Ky., and studied at the original mother-house of the order, St. Rose monastery, at Springfield, Ky., while Fr. Donohoe is from Newark. They have been steadily engaged on missions since the beginning of the Lenten season and have met with great results. They are deeply gratified over the great crowds that have attended the mission at St. Michael's and the constancy with which they have attended all services.

NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

LYNN, May 20.—At the conclusion of a continued hearing in the district court today, Judge Lummus discharged Patrick J. Lyons, a chauffeur, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Samuel Gould, a seven-year-old boy, on May 7. The child was playing in the street and was run over by an automobile operated by Lyons. After the accident Lyons carried the child to a hospital and then surrendered to the police. Witnesses of the accident said in court today that Lyons did everything in his power to avert the accident.

TO TAKE OVER EXPRESS BUSINESS

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Wells Fargo Express Co. has arranged to take over after July 1 the business of the Pacific Express Co., which operates over the Missouri Pacific and its affiliated lines. Missouri Pacific officials said today:

"It has been found that the service of the Pacific Express restricted to the Missouri and the affiliated lines was not to the best interest of its shippers and could be better served by an express company reaching practically all the commercial centers in the United States and foreign countries. The related railway interests in the Gould system are making arrangements with Wells Fargo & Co. for a comprehensive improvement of the service on their lines."

LICENSE TRADES

Boston Police to Stop Them

BOSTON, May 20.—The licensing board has put its foot down on speculation in liquor licenses. After Aug. 1 of this year the board for the remainder of the license year will consider no application for the sale of liquor licenses, except in cases of death, bankruptcy or some other imperative reason.

This means that there will be a big tumble in the asking price of licenses, which at the present time are quoted from $12,000 to $15,000. After Aug. 1 these licenses will be good only to the persons in whose names they were granted.

The license board says that at present there are 20 licenses being carried around by men who are looking for a chance to unload at a good profit. It is this speculation that the board wants to stop.

No member of the board would speak last night regarding the latest edict. It is said, however, that several complaints have been received by the board from persons wishing to engage in the liquor business that the price asked for licenses by persons holding them and not wishing to enter into the business themselves was excessive.

The board is holding in reserve 16 licenses, some of which, it is said, will be granted to the new hotels in process of construction or contemplated.

The new order of the board will cause the holders of the unused 20 licenses to either surrender them or go into business. If surrendered to the board it will give the board the opportunity of awarding them at the regulation figures.

BOXING STOPPED

Amateurs Were Placed Under Arrest

NEW YORK, May 20.—Police interference brought the International amateur boxing tournament in Madison square garden to a halt last night after one bout had been decided.

The police charged that the bouts were in violation of law as tickets had been sold to non-members of the Pastime Athletic club, which had arranged the tournament.

As soon as the first bout had ended, referee Tim Hurst, the boxer and eight other persons, including timekeepers and other officials, were placed under arrest.

BOUITS POSTPONED

NEW YORK, May 20.—Promoters of the international boxing tournament announced today that the series of bouts scheduled for tonight at Madison Square Garden had been postponed to some date not yet fixed. This action followed the raid made upon the tournament at the opening last night, when police officials and boxers were arrested on the charge of selling and participating in a prize fight. The ground taken by the police is that the promoters broke the law by selling tickets to persons not members of the Pastime Athletic club, which managed the affair. The tournament was the most ambitious attempt to conduct the fighting game on a large scale that had been made here since the passage of the late law.

OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO-MORROW MORNING

The Knights of Columbus will observe their Communion Sunday, tomorrow morning. Special cars will be taken from Monument square at 7.30 o'clock and the Knights will proceed in a body to the Sacred Heart church where at 8 o'clock mass will be sung by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., chaplain of Lowell council. After the service breakfast will be served and entertainment given in the school hall.

BETTER PRICES MARKED THE FINAL TRADING

The Active Group Made Gains Over Yesterday—Rock Island Issues Were Strong—Fertilizer Stocks Made a Partial Recovery

NEW YORK, May 20.—A brisk selling movement was undertaken when the market opened today. The market leaders were attacked severely by the bear traders but the losses in these issues were confined to small fractions. Some of the less active stocks suffered more severely. Virginia-Carolina Chemical dropped 1 1/2, Westinghouse Electric one and National Lead and National Railways of Mexico second pf, 3/4.

Efforts to put up prices were hampered by a further outbreak of liquidation in the fertilizers. Reports regarding the business conditions confronting the companies were not at all promising and there seemed to be some removal of concentrated bear efforts against the group. Railroad stocks mostly advanced beyond their opening figures. Missouri Pacific was conspicuously heavy. American Locomotive gained 1 and Evansville & Terra Haute five points.

The market closed strong. Increased activity and better prices marked the final trading, the active group gaining fractionally over yesterday's closing figures. Rock Island issues were notably strong. The fertilizer stocks made a partial recovery from their early declines.

STATEHOOD BILL

CAUSED SESSION OF THE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Anticipation of members of the house whose homes are within easy reach of Washington that they might spend the week-end with their families, were rudely shattered yesterday when it was decided that there should be a session today. It was the first Saturday session in many weeks and the statehood resolution to admit Arizona and New Mexico was the only business on the calendar. The measure will constantly be before the house until Tuesday night when it will be called up for passage.

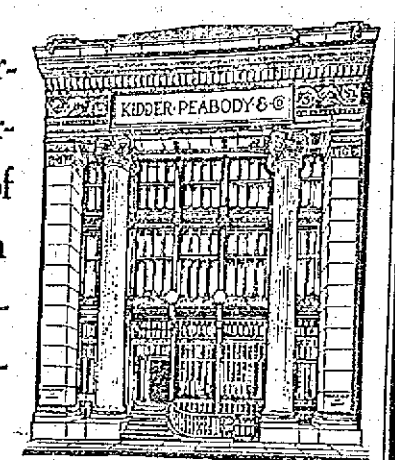

The senate was not in session today.

"PARISH PRIEST"

Fine Performance Given by Local Amateurs

The last of a series of performances of the well known drama "The Parish Priest," was given last night in the Immaculate Conception school hall, before a very large and appreciative audience. The proceeds of these soirees which are very substantial will be devoted to the church fund.

The play which is a rather difficult one for amateurs was rendered with such precision and ensemble that the spectators applauded vigorously. Every part of the representation was well filled, but special mention is due Mr. John J. Quinn and Miss Mary E. Whiteley, the leading parties who delighted their audiences with their artistic acting. Messrs. Charles Bonbrider, John A. Finnegan, Thomas J. Beane, John T. Payne, William C. Harrington and Miss Margaret McDonough and Mrs. Lena Ewing. Martin also secured highly and they showed once again that they are really at home on the stage.

TAX DEEDS INVALID

All Tax Titles From 1902 to 1908 Inclusive Declared Invalid—Hundreds of Titles Affected

Yesterday afternoon the full bench of the supreme court of Massachusetts sent down a decision in the city tax title cases, so-called. These were three suits brought by Dennis E. Connors, Edward P. Connors and Joseph Walsh against the city of Lowell to recover back money paid by plaintiffs to the city treasurer for tax titles purchased by them in the years 1902 and 1903.

The decision of the supreme court invalidates every tax title in Lowell given between the years 1902 and 1903, inclusive, and most of those given since.

The suits were brought in June 1910 and were heard in September 1910 before Judge Harris in the superior court at Cambridge. Albert S. Howard for the plaintiffs and City Solicitor Duncan for the defendant.

Judge Harris held that most of the titles in question were invalid. The supreme court goes further and holds that many are invalid which Judge Harris held were valid. These cases have been regarded as test cases and the decision will make radical changes in the conduct of the city treasury.

The supreme court also holds that it is not legal to publish tax notices in a French newspaper.

In the cases in question Joseph Walsh sought to recover back money or five, Dennis E. Connors for twenty-seven, and Edward P. Connors for ten different tax deeds.

The decision of the supreme court is of the greatest importance because it holds that every tax deed given by the city treasurer from 1902 to 1908 inclusive, is invalid and that most of the deeds given by him in 1909 are invalid. In 1901 the legislature established a form of tax deed to be used by collectors of taxes in Massachusetts. In 1902 when the revised laws were enacted a new form of tax deed was established with the provision, however, that other suitable forms might be used.

laws because it omitted to set forth certain statements as to manner of sale which the supreme court says it should have included. It has also been the custom of the treasurer for many years to publish at least one-third of the notices of sales for taxes in L'Espresso and this was done by him until 1910.

The supreme court holds that this publication was insufficient and that notices of tax sales to be valid must be published in the English language. It must set forth the name of the resident upon whom the demand for tax is made and that it is the duty of the assessor to examine probate records at East Cambridge for the purpose of ascertaining the proper names of heirs before making demand.

Up to and including the year 1900, it was the custom of the city treasurer in describing parcels and lots to be sold for taxes in notices of sales and in deeds where the lots had been laid out in some plan or record at the registry, to describe the lots by simply giving the number of lot, street and side of street in which it was located, without further describing, and without giving the names of bounding owners, or a description of plan on which lots as numbered might be found.

The supreme court holds that this matter of describing lots is insufficient and that at least names of bounding owners should be given. The court accordingly holds that certain tax deeds given in 1902 to Dennis E. Connors, where the names of the bounding owners are given, were valid, but that many earlier deeds given to Joseph Walsh and Edward P. Connors, without names of bounding owners, are invalid.

Many of the tax sales made since 1909 have been based upon assessments made to persons holding tax titles acquired by them personally. The supreme court holds that all tax deeds prior to 1909 are invalid, assessments to persons holding such deeds are invalid and in this way many tax deeds given subsequent to 1909 are rendered invalid.

The adjourned meeting of the real estate exchange was held yesterday afternoon at the board of trade rooms. Temporary President Arthur L. Gray presided and Temporary Secretary Guy Hunt was at his post and he read the records of the first meeting.

Abel R. Campbell, for the committee on constitution and by-laws, reported a draft, which with amendments, was adopted. F. D. Russell for the committee on commissions and penalties made a report which for lack of time was left open for discussion until the next meeting, next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when a permanent organization will be effected and officers for the year elected.

Hosford Residence Sold
The former residence of the late Arthur H. Hosford in Dunstable, known as the "Idlewild," was today sold at auction, the purchaser being Mr. George C. Moore who paid $12,000 for the property.

Mrs. Arthur H. Hosford has moved into the house numbered 655 Westford street which she leased recently, and which was formerly occupied by Charles D. Carter.

The New Beam House
Plans for the proposed beam house for the American Hide & Leather Co., to be located in Perry street, are being figured by local contractors.

Sisters' Home
The contract for the new Sisters' home in Aubrey street has been awarded to J. B. Moran, and a shift of men is already at work in demolishing a part of the present home at the corner of James and Moody streets. It had been planned at first to build a cement building, but these plans have been changed and a wood and brick building will be erected instead.

Lowell	3	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	X

A great crowd journeyed to Spalding park this afternoon to see the Lowell team and the Whalers from New Bedford clash. The grandstand and bleachers were crowded and hundreds were obliged to stand along the foul line in left field. The day was an ideal one for baseball and the fans were very enthusiastic. In the first inning they gave Jake Bouttes a great reception and the Lowell player showed his appreciation by driving out a pretty single on which Magée scored. Tom Bannan was again the decision maker. The teams lined up as follows:

Lowell
Moulton, 2b; Barrows, cf; Cooney, ss; Magée, lf; Fluharty, rf; Wright, 1b; Bouttes, 3b; Huston, c; Wolfgang, p.

New Bedford

First Inning
New Bedford went out in order in the opening inning. Bauman's grounder was taken care of by Cooney and the visitor was thrown out at first. Moulton reached first on Bauman's error of his grounder and then started to steal second. Winchester continued on to second. Barrows was given a wild pass, and the fourth ball was a wild pitch on which Moulton scored and Barrows took second. Cooney flied out to Wilson. Magée and Barrows tried to hit and run game, but Magée's hit was a dandy to left field and Barrows scored.

Second Inning
Neither side scored in the second. Rising led off with a hit and stole second. McCrone drove one to deep right field that Fluharty made a great catch. Moran struck out and Wilson went out, Wolfgang to Wright.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Knickerbocker Savings & Loan Co. of 28 Park row closed its doors this morning following an examination made by Superintendent of Banks Cheney yesterday.

Mr. Cheney would throw no light on the failure, which is a small one, other than to say that the action was necessary because of discoveries made yesterday during the course of the regular examination conducted by the banking department.

The last financial statement of the company showed assets of $190,394 with cash on hand of $5,263.

Herbert Gibbs, secretary and attorney for the company, had little to say. It was a great surprise to him, he said, J. J. Kennedy, a special deputy superintendent of banks, took charge of the company's offices. He said the assets would be liquidated.

GENERAL SANCHEZ

Plans to Take Control of Many Small Towns

PRESIDIO, Texas, May 20.—With the occupancy of Ojinaga the Insurrecto general Sanchez has announced tentative plans for taking control of many of the smaller towns in the district and then marching to Chihuahua. The march of General Lugo, who commanded the Ojinaga garrison, and General Esquivel, who came to his relief and put the besieging rebels to rout in a battle for the railroad station at Fatomere. Colonel Ortega with 75 rebels pursued the retreating army and repeatedly fired into the rear guard of the federal forces. The latter did not give battle. Near Leonora 25 rebels surrendered. They were allowed to cross into the United States.

Lieut. Juan Casada Torres, chief of gendarmes of Ojinaga, was captured by the rebels and is a prisoner in Ojinaga. When the federal abandoned Ojinaga the citizens who had remained loyal to the government fled to the American bank of the Rio Grande and are camped in the woods. A city of more than 1000 refugees was built in a night and insurgents took possession of the abandoned town.

General Sanchez, who was wounded in the fight at El Gato entered Ojinaga in a carriage. He issued strict orders against looting and placed guards at the doorway of every house. A few of the families returned later and in a few days Ojinaga will again be populated. American customs officers here have received orders to permit the exportation of arms and ammunition and to recognize the provisional local officers.

BUBONIC PLAGUE

THE CAUSE OF 43 DEATHS IN TWO WEEKS

AMOY, China, May 20.—Forty-three deaths from the bubonic plague and six deaths from smallpox are reported during the two weeks ended on Friday.

Disease Germs Carried in the Hair

There is no medium which is more largely responsible for carrying contagion from one point to another than the hair.

There constantly comes from the pores of the scalp an oil which gets on the hair and seems to be a favorite lodging and breeding place for germs.

If the truth were actually known, it would be found that more diseases are communicated from house to house through germs lodging in the hair than by any other means.

In the face of this, there are some people who don't wash their hair and heads oftener than every month or two, and some not so often as that.

It is really dreadful to think about.

Some of the nicest people you know, who are very particular about bathing their faces and bodies, are most negligent about cleansing their hair and heads, all because of a mistaken notion.

The old idea that a shampoo once a month or two was sufficient is positively wrong.

It is just as necessary to keep the head and hair clean as to keep the face and hands clean.

Doctor Lassar, the famous German professor, says the first step toward stopping the falling of hair and toward hair health generally is to keep the scalp clean by washing.

This should be done daily in the beginning, and as the scalp assumes a more normal condition, the head can be washed less frequently.

It is more or less trouble for a woman to wash her hair so often, but it is trouble worth taking, because a woman's hair is very dear to her, and so is a man's. Don't make the mistake of using ordinary soaps and shampoos.

Use the one thing which is above suspicion and criticism, and that is Birt's Head Wash.

It is made of Refined Creamy Soap, Cochin Cocoon Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerin and Salicylic Acid. This formula is so generally recognized as proper that you are invited to ask any physician what he thinks about it.

Birt's Head Wash doesn't simply take off the dirt, dandruff, germs and microbes, but it leaves the scalp soft and moist and the hair fine and glossy. It is not secret.

It is sold to you for just what it is.

It works in harmony with Nature.

It removes the dirt, dandruff and disease germs, and Nature does the growing of hair under these improved conditions. In hygienic tubes, 25c.

UNIQUE TURNOUT

Two Great Teams of Mules and Oxen

NOT THE VANGUARD OF WILD WEST SHOW

But the Advertising Outfit of a St. Louis Brewery, Booming Anheuser-Busch and Budweiser

During the last few days a great many residents of Lowell supposed that the first instalment of the Buffalo Bill Wild West show had arrived in Lowell on seeing two large wagons, one drawn by six beautiful mules and the other by six oxen. The mules are in charge of Harvey Burgess assisted by Max Wagner, and the oxen in charge of Pat Young with Tony Leslie assistant. The teams are not a part of the Buffalo Bill show but are simply an advertising outfit put on the road by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. of St. Louis, and are to visit various agencies throughout the country. They arrived here four days ago, and have attracted wide attention wherever they went throughout the city.

The oxen are attached to an old fashioned prairie schooner, and several dogs follow this team to make it look as if it had just crossed the plains. It bears in large letters the legend "Budweiser," the name of one of the company's famous brands of beer. The oxen came from Kentucky and Texas. They are all perfectly matched and the leading pair are twins. Two oxen are always held in reserve, so as to guard against breaks in the team by sickness or accident. They are all sleek and fat showing evidence of the best of care and grooming. The men in charge of them treat them as pets, and know the tastes and dispositions of each particular one.

The mule team is said to be unrivaled in the world. The Anheuser-Busch Co. employed a veterinary who spent six months collecting the eight mules on the team, two always being held in reserve. They are so perfectly matched that none but the driver can distinguish one from the others. The mules are rather small in size, but are very beautiful animals. The harness on this team is said to have cost $1200. The two teams when in procession make a sight as unique as anything seen in a circus parade.

They have started daily on a tour from the business place of Mr. Thomas E. Lennon, 219 Market street, who is the local agent for the St. Louis brewery and their various brands of beer and Anheuser-Busch and Budweiser.

A BIG INCREASE

In Earnings Expected by Railroads

NEW HAVEN, May 20.—Traffic agreements in part heretofore outlined between the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the New York Central road providing for an extensive interchange of traffic in southern New England are soon to be signed. Computations made at the office of the New Haven company show, it is asserted, that there will be a decided increase of net earnings when the rearrangements go into full effect. This is due particularly to better results for the New Haven on the through traffic east and west owing to more favorable division of rates. The New Haven will not have to the same extent as heretofore the haul on business via Jersey City but on the other hand the short hauls on the Boston & Albany and the New York-Central connection will result in decided economies in operation. It is claimed also by the New Haven officers that the greatly increased business thrown on the Boston & Albany will result in the extinction of the deficit in the lease of that line if not in an actual profit.

ART ASSOCIATION

ELECTS JOSEPH A. NESMITH PRESIDENT FOR ENSUING YEAR

The Lowell Art association held its regular monthly meeting at the Whittier house, yesterday afternoon. Joseph A. Nesmith, president, and Rev. Charles P. Billings, vice president for the ensuing year. The entertainment committee reported $350 proceeds from the recent vaudeville show.

The membership tickets for the new year—necessary for current exhibitions—are now ready, and the treasurer, Mr. Arthur T. Sutton, will shortly issue his annual report in printed form and with it the usual call for the payment of annual dues—which form the chief source of revenue on which the society is forced to rely for its maintenance and work. Mr. Coggeshall's exhibition is still on the walls at the lower hall, and will give results for the summer exhibit, which this year is to consist of textiles and Japanese prints loaned by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Membership tickets will be issued by Miss Mary Stever, chairman of the membership committee, 27 Nesmith street.

Regal Shoes hereafter are to be sold at what it costs to make them, plus 5% commission and the necessary allowance for delivery to the wearer.

HIGH SCHOOL PARTY

The dancing party, held in the town hall last night by the senior class of the High school, proved a most successful affair. The attendance was the largest that was ever present at any of the affairs conducted in previous years. The hall was tastefully decorated with national colors and the stage was set with potted plants and ferns. On the left of the hall was situated a cozy corner where the matrons of the evening received the guests. There were many new dances presented during the evening and the many pretty gowns of the young ladies presented a very fine appearance. A concert program was given from 8 to 8.45 when dancing was commenced and continued until 10.30 when an intermission was given and refreshments were served in the lower hall. Miss Gertrude Quigley under whose personal direction the party was conducted, deserves credit for the success of the affair as it was a decided success socially and financially. Mrs. Holt, wife of the principal, and the Misses Quinn, Gookin, and McDermott, teachers in the schools. Notable among the guests present during the evening were John F. Harrington and John J. Monahan, members of the school committee, and Mrs. Monahan, and Mr. Holt, principal of the high school, with the other teachers of the schools in the village.

COL. WILLIAM F. CODY

COL. WM. F. CODY

Estimate of His Show
by Col. Burke

Col. Burke of the Buffalo Bill show speaking of the present aggregation, said: "Do not imagine that the show you are to see here on May 24 is the same show you saw here four years ago. Nothing like it ever appeared at any previous time. It is up to the minute in every feature and every year has seen it multiply its wonderful features. This he says is Col. Cody's farewell tour as he is about to retire from the show business and spend his remaining days in the solitude of his ranch."

Here Col. Burke glanced over the history of the country, noting how one curtain after another was lifted by explorers, missionaries and soldiers. Decades of each century went by, each marking an advance until the comparatively to us early days of Washington and Crockett along the Ohio, then of Louis and Clark, Fremont and Carson and their kind, who helped to dissipate the misty shroud that covered the vast expanse beyond the Missouri. Thus was certain after curtain made disappear, until a final curtain was raised in a unique manner.

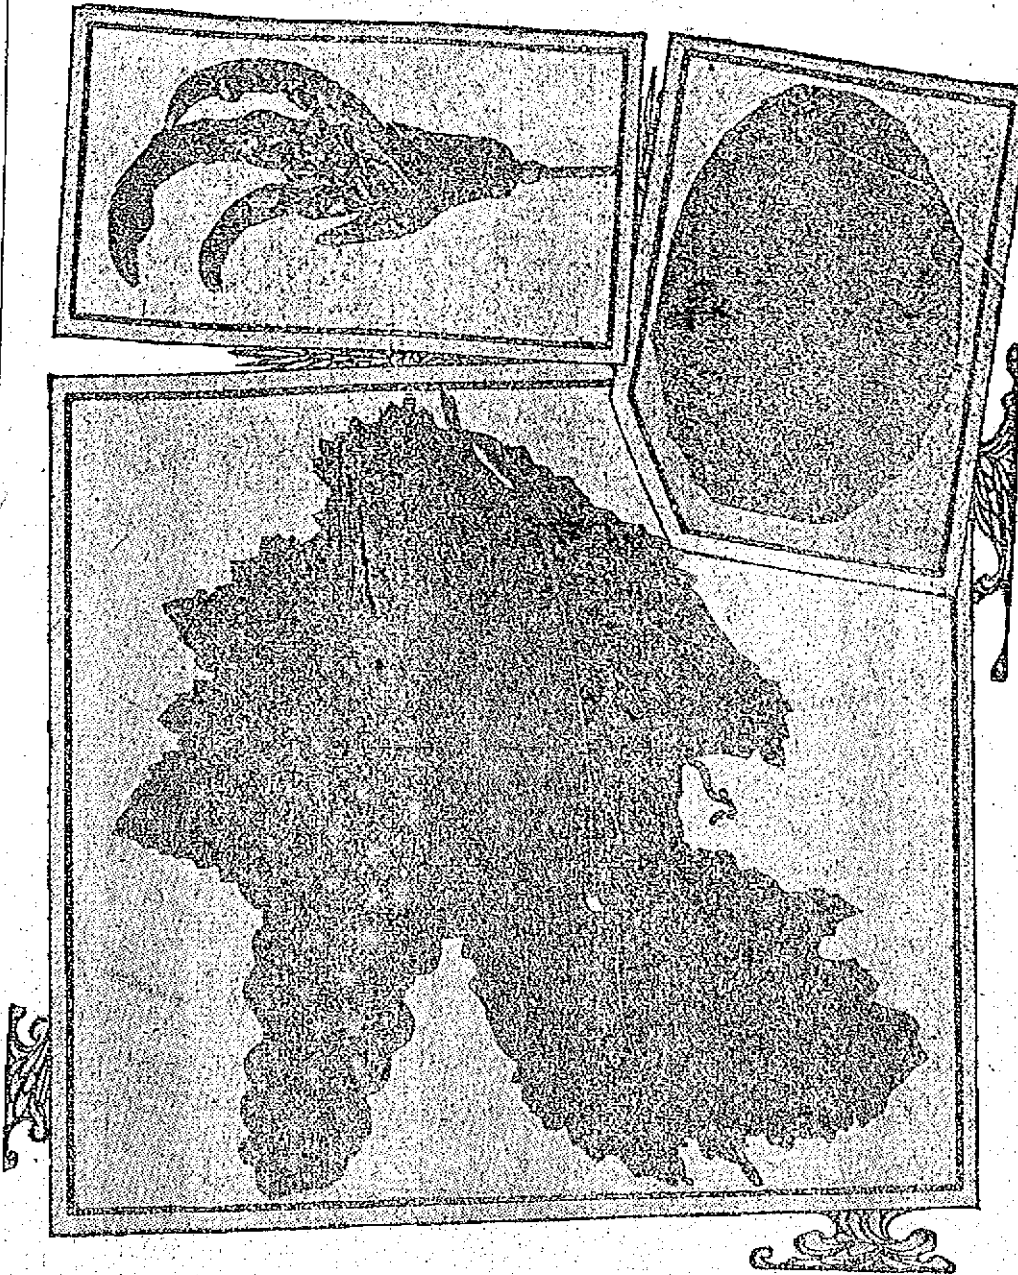

ner by Col. W. F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, making the known and the unknown better acquainted and inaugurating his great national exhibition.

Years afterward, on his visit to the Queen's Jubilee in 1887, the London Times, recognizing it as a factor, arousing fraternal feeling between the two countries, said "Col. Cody has done his share in uniting England and America near together. It is just as true that he was largely instrumental in making the east and the west know the greatness of each other, engendering mutual respect and knowledge of the vast resources that have since played a factor in the nation's wealth."

For thirty years he has contributed through his exhibition a practical method of educating the spectator with scenes, incidents from the nation's history and the story of the assimilation with the white man marks an epoch in history, when the conquering race absorbs the conquered.

Advancing further along the line to add human interest he has extended his exhibition to one of international importance by adding to his original Wild West his friend and fellow exhibitor, Pawnee Bill's Far East. With these two valued exhibits combined in one arena, at one time, at one price, he feels that a fitting program is presented to celebrate his last visit to this city on the closing tour of his career as an exhibitor, one he can point to with pride as he bids you at the same time from the saddle a regretful, farewell.

STRANGE JEWELRY FROM PARIS

By means of a secret process Professor Louis G. Delamotte is able to convert flowers, fruit and even animal life into metal. His method does not consist merely of electroplating. It does not deposit upon the surface of the petals of the carnation, pear, dragon fly or what not a thin layer of metal. Such plating is by no means a new art. He confines his energies toward the conversion of the organic material into one of an inorganic character. As a matter of fact, when looking at a bunch of grapes which have been converted into the metallic state by his process it is impossible to say that it is otherwise than fruit. The treatment is accomplished in its entirety by electrical agency. The picture shows (1) a fowl's foot metallized to form a champagne hatpin, (2) a cactus converted into a metal pepper pot, (3) a bunch of grapes in their natural state.

FOR SHORT WEIGHT

Lynn Dealers Are Liable to be Prosecuted

BOSTON, May 20.—State Sealer of Weights and Measures Daniel C. Palmer yesterday sent a letter to Mayor Conner of Lynn announcing that wholesale prosecutions were contemplated for violation of law, and that Lynn was in the poorest condition of any city in the state.

The Lynn investigations, it is said at the state house, are only a part of the campaign that the state sealer is mapping out for every city in the state.

Sealer Palmer has been waging a war on the strawberry dealers in Boston on account of boxes which contain less than a quart and are not filled to the brim. And the "strawberry men" have told the sealer that it is impossible to get full measure boxes, because they shrink and because the berries cannot be shifted from one box to another without injuring them. A red hot fight on the market district is on in addition to the other warfare.

Speaking of Lynn the sealer says: "I am of the opinion that when all of the facts are considered, every city shows the poorest condition of any city or town in the commonwealth."

Mr. Palmer mentions the case of strawberries in Lynn where boxes are 7.44 per cent. short. He says that measures show a shortage of 14.18 per cent. The report mentions the case of one store where there is an error of one ounce in every pound sold. It was an inaccurate scale found in general use.

In the case of the ice wagons, a study, he says, reveals errors favoring the ice dealers to the extent of 16 per cent. The junk dealers are found to be in a bad position. Of eight examined seven had not been sealed. Of the seven five were false, involving a gain of 20 per cent. to the junk dealer.

The case of a scale in the Boston & Maine station is mentioned where expressage is weighed. That involves an error of 14 pounds in every 270 pounds of express matter weighed.

In milk bottles a deficiency of 3.79 per cent. is found.

Sealer Palmer says that he is convinced that further investigations in Lynn will reveal many more cases of false measurement. He says that there are now twenty-five cases to be put into court.

A FREAK SHOCK

Caused Death of Lynn Youth

LYNN, May 20.—While at work testing air lights, Francis Leary, 21 years old, of 88 Woburn street, Lexington, was electrocuted at factory 3B of the General Electric company, at 5.15 yesterday afternoon.

The apparatus with which Leary was working was found perfectly insulated and no reason for the electrocution could be discovered.

The workmen refused to work their last 15 minutes in fear that they, too, would be stricken down when everything in the room seemed all right. Many said they would not go to work in the room today until the cause of Leary's death was determined.

According to officials of the company, Leary was electrocuted while disconnecting a lamp. He had thrown off the switch in the regular way and so it was figured the electricity did not come from the wires attached to the lamp.

He was not instantly killed, as is the case in most instances of electrocution. He was thrown into what seemed to be a stupor and for two hours and a half physicians thought there was life in the body. He was not pronounced dead until 8 o'clock. It was declared that 3000 to 3500 volts passed through his body.

Leary is a graduate of the Lexington high school in the class of 1909. He was night telephone boy at Lexington for a year and then entered the employ of the General Electric company as an apprentice electrician.

KEEP ACCOUNTS

Some Information for Women

"I wonder where it all went to!" one hears a woman say ever so often when gazing at an empty purse, and you can be sure of one thing—the woman who does not know where it goes will soon have no money to wonder about.

In other words, my friends, keep accounts.

The woman who writes down each night what she has spent each day knows where she is "at" in the vicinacular of the boys. At the end of the month when she has a deficit she is able to judge why it exists—because of what extravagance—and this gives her the requisite hint, without which she would be totally at sea.

The woman who keeps no accounts never knows what percentage she is paying for rent, for dresses, etc. She is rarely able to save, to lay aside anything for a rainy day, for savings are done little by little, not in large sums.

The discrepancy between a thirty-five dollar hat and a twenty dollar suit (which did not wear well because too elaborate for the price paid) will be very apparent to any woman when she sees those two items set down side by side. She will also understand by the length of time they lasted her that she should have paid more for her shoes and less for embroidered silk stockings, and that when underwear had a certain sum paid for it lasted twice as long as the cheaper variety did.

Not only for clothes and household expenses is the daily account necessary, but also for the daily spending account. No woman realizes what she wastes in useless car fares, telephones and sodas unless she writes it down.

Ten cents seems little enough, but when it is the fifth ten cents in a day half a dollar is gone which might buy one of many useful and greatly needed things.

This is the knowledge which makes keeping accounts fully worth the effort.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A pretty gathering of friends took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson, the occasion being the 17th anniversary of birth of their daughter, Agnes. In half of those present, Miss Margaret Cuff presented Miss Nicholson a beautiful gold-silver ring. Although taken by surprise, Miss Nicholson thanked her friends in a pleasing manner. There were piano solos by Miss Heneoth Johnson, duets by Miss Nicholson and Miss Johnson, while Miss Veracunda Cox sang delightfully, "Blanket Day." Refreshments were served and the merry gathering broke at a late hour, wishing the young hostesses many returns of the day.

MAY PARTY
ANNUAL AFFAIR CONDUCTED BY THE Y. M. C. I.

The annual May party of the Y. M. C. I. given at Associate hall last night proved to be a delightful affair. There was a large attendance, and the twenty odd numbers on the dance program were fully enjoyed. Music by Gilmore's orchestra. The officers of the evening were:

John J. Sullivan, general manager; George M. Clark, assistant general manager; Peter Rogers, floor director; John J. Tansey, assistant floor director; William King, chief aid; Michael O'Keefe, treasurer.

The mayor had a long interview with the governor in the afternoon, and the governor remained an hour after his usual hours to hear the protests of the teachers' committee against the views which he expressed to the mayor and which a few days ago he had stated to their attorney, Herbert Parker.

The teachers in their statement indicated their belief that the governor is influenced by prejudice in his objection to one clause in their bill, and that there are questions of honesty involved in the demand for the modification of the bill just at the time when the two years' campaign of their club of 2000 members seemed to be at the point of success.

MAY VETO Teachers' Salary Bill

BOSTON, May 20.—The salary committee of the Boston Elementary Teachers' club last night issued a statement affirming their intention to ask the legislature to pass the bill for the increase of their salaries for the veto of Gov. Foss, if the governor fulfills the purpose he announced yesterday to Mayor Fitzgerald and the teachers. The governor objects to the bill on the ground that it contains what is known as the "mandatory clause" which, in his judgment, violates the rights of the school committee by fixing the salaries of certain classes of city employees in an arbitrary manner.

CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL YOUTH USED GUN DOMESTIC JARS TWO ARE GUILTY

Hearing on the Location to be a Lively One

It is expected that the hearing to be given by the city council in joint convention to persons opposed to the location of a contagious disease hospital on the site selected by the contagious hospital commission, next Tuesday night, will be a very lively one.

Fred W. Jenness, one of the remonstrants, was a caller at the city hall this forenoon, and he was very positive that the hospital would not be erected on the site selected by a majority of the commission. Mr. Jenness said there seemed to be too much personal feeling in the matter of a location and he was surprised that professional men should display temper in a matter of business so important to properly owners.

"I am free to admit that I did not follow this matter closely enough in the beginning," said Mr. Jenness, "but when the proposition was made to locate the hospital at the city farm I thought the commission had in mind the site now advocated by Dr. McCarty. So far as doctors are concerned I have no choice in an argument of this kind and I can lean only to the man who leans to right and common sense.

"In this matter Dr. McCarty is in the minority, but he is in the right just the same. He was, at first, in favor of the site now favored by other members of the commission, but when he realized that he had made a

Tried to Shoot His Father After Wounding Himself

John Coultis, aged 20, years, and living at 447 Market street, fired a bullet through his left little finger this morning, and then attempted to kill his father, Angelos Coultis. The young man, however, was arrested by Officer George Abbott before doing further harm.

Angelos Coultis, the father, runs a shoemaker's shop at the corner of Market and Jefferson streets, and his boy John is in his employ. They both live over the shop. At 9:45 o'clock this morning John left the shop and went upstairs to eat breakfast, while his father continued working.

A few minutes later the father's attention was attracted by a woman on the second floor who was shouting that John had killed himself. He ran up the stairs and there found John lying on the floor with a 38 calibre revolver in his right hand, and a bullet wound in the little finger of the left hand. When the boy saw his father enter the room, he quickly got up on his feet and aimed the revolver at him. The latter, however, sprang upon his son and grabbing him by the throat, after a long struggle, held him till Officer Abbott, who happened to be nearby, and heard the shouts, took hold of him.

The revolver is of the 38 calibre type and contained five shells, two of which were empty. After a severe examination on the part of the officer it was disclosed that only one shot had been fired in the room, and that was the one that penetrated John's finger, and lodged itself into the wall.

The prisoner was sent to police headquarters and arraigned before Judge Hadley on a complaint of threatening his father. The young man when asked if he was guilty of the charge preferred against him, answered in good English "I was mad and wanted to hit my father." After hearing the testimony of the father, the court ordered the defendant to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for a term of six months. The required bonds were not furnished and John was committed. Before going to jail the prisoner was treated by Dr. Smith.

Heard by Judge Hadley This Morning

Gardinier and Phillips Convicted for Smuggling in Chinese

BOSTON, May 20.—A verdict of guilty was returned in the U. S. district court last night against George M. B. Gardinier of Weymouth and Goodman Phillips of Boston, two of the four defendants accused of conspiracy to smuggle Chinese into this country from Jamaica. The latter has been convicted twice before on Chinese smuggling charges.

Dr. Glen Racy May of Woodcliffe Lake, N. J., a former Chinese interpreter at the immigration office in Boston, and Capt. Harvey C. Daly of Orient Heights were acquitted.

The jury retired at 4:30 yesterday afternoon after Judge Dodge had delivered the charge. He told the jury they must consider the case of each of the accused separately and render a verdict against those who, in their minds, had been connected with the conspiracy to smuggle Chinese in violation of the U. S. laws.

The jury returned at 8:30 with the verdict. The wives of all four of the defendants were present. Mrs. May, the American wife of the Chinese defendant, embraced her husband with tears in her eyes and then ran to Robert W. Moore of New York, May's land argued for the government.

Manuel Foster pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with threatening his wife, and was ordered to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for six months. Mrs. Foster testified that last Thursday her husband threw a cup at her and later threatened her bodily harm. She also said that he was in the habit of getting intoxicated every Saturday, and that she was afraid of him. Manuel had nothing to say and the above sentence was imposed.

Non-support.

Geo. Marcotte, who allowed that he was not treating his wife as he should by pleading guilty to a charge of non-support, was given a probation term with the understanding that he will pay $4 per week for the care of his wife and child. The wife in the course of testimony said that she was living with her mother who is supporting her, while her husband refuses to care for her. The husband testifying in his own behalf said he was willing to care for his better half as long as she would keep away from her mother entirely.

However, the court ordered the defendant to pay $4 per week to the probation officer for the care of Mrs. Marcotte.

Drunkness.

Catherine Martin and John J. Fox were both sentenced after pleading guilty to charges of drunkenness. Walter Wilson, a young man aged 20 years, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory, Patrimonia Lodge and Branch testified that the young man was frequently under the influence of liquor and that he did not work. Two first offenders were released by the probation officer, and two others were fined $2 each.

EMPEROR LEAVES LONDON

LONDON, May 20.—Emperor William, Empress Augusta and Princess Victoria Louise left here today to rejoin the imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Sheerness from which port they will depart for home tomorrow, after an apparently heartily enjoyed visit to the British capital. The imperial visitors spent the week here more like tourists than members of royalty, having devoted all their spare time to sightseeing, at the picture galleries, zoological gardens and museums and at the naval and military tournaments. While out driving or walking they conducted themselves with a remarkable absence of formality. King George and Queen Mary, together with other members of royal families in London, bade farewell to the imperial family at the railroad station in the precincts of which big crowds gave the emperor and empress a hearty send-off.

TO BUILD DREADNOUGHTS

LONDON, May 20.—The English tenders for the construction of two Chilean dreadnoughts have been accepted, according to the London Evening News which says today that definite orders for two battleships of 26,000 tons will be placed here soon. One of the English tenders is said to have been $1,000,000 below the next lowest bid. The ships are to be named the Libertad and the Constitution and will be armed with twelve heavy guns.

THE STATE BALL MAN WAS KILLED

Was a Very Brilliant Affair While Trying to Enter Neighbor's House

LONDON, May 20.—The first state ball of the reign of King George, the date for which was selected in honor of the visit of the German Emperor and Empress, was held at Buckingham Palace last night. It was an unusually brilliant function.

King George and Empress William had dined together at the palace with the royal family, and afterward were joined by 30 additional members of the royal household, who formed into a magnificent procession. The king and empress, respectively in German and British uniforms, preceded the officials in gorgeous robes and carrying their wands of office, through the whole length of the state apartments to the ball room, where thousands of guests had gathered, including Whitehall, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid, and the diplomatic corps.

Queen Mary and the Empress Augusta Victoria and all the ladies wore lavish displays of jewelry. Emperor William took as his partner Queen Mary, and King George, the German Empress. The Duke of Connaught and Princess Victoria Louise opened the ball with the "Royal Quadrille." Midnight saw a repitition of the gorgeous procession, this time from the ballroom to the supper room.

Queen Mary's coronation was like a breakfast of diamonds. The German Empress wore a diamond crown. The leading peeresses all wore costly displays. The Duchess of Westminster, Manchester and Roxburgh were notable. Every man present, with the sole exception of Ambassador Reid, was in uniform. Miss Mabel Choute, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, went with Mr. and Mrs. Reid to the ball.

HUKWANG LOAN FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROADS SIGNED

PEKING, May 20.—The Hukwang loan for the construction of railroads in the provinces of Hunan and Hupai was signed here today by the representatives of the American, British, French and German groups of banks. Besides providing for the original amount of $30,000,000, provision is made in the agreement for an extra $20,000,000 should that additional sum be needed for the completion of the project.

Bankers here are of the opinion that the Hukwang loan is the most important financial transaction ever signed in China. It provides for the construction of 1,200 miles of railroad in Hunan and Hupai and is secured by the revenues of those provinces, which, in case of default, may be administered by the maritime customs.

SUPREME COURT

Says That Kiss Is Worth $500

PROVIDENCE, May 20.—The supreme court yesterday said that Susan E. Chapin was entitled to $500 from Martin M. Stone, a business man, for a kiss.

On the momentous question Chief Justice Dubois handed down two opinions sustaining the award of the jury in the superior court. The request for a new trial was refused on the ground that he failed to specify wherein the jury did not give him a fair and impartial trial. The chief justice denounced the filing of omnibus petitions as was done in the case of the defendant.

The form of action in the kissing case was assault. Mrs. Chapin claimed that she went into the defendant's store and that he came up behind her, seized her by the arms and implanted a kiss on her face. The case went to the supreme court in the first instance on the defendant's bill of exceptions, which was overruled and judgment was ordered entered on the verdict.

AMERICAN FLAG PRESENTED TO WEST LONDON STREET SCHOOL

The members of D. F. Butler, W. R. C., presented a flag to the West London street school yesterday afternoon with appropriate exercises. Miss Margaret Chase, granddaughter of Gilbert E. Chase, a veteran, and a granddaughter of Thomas Doyle, also a veteran, was the flag bearer. Mrs. Lizzie W. Worthen, patriotic instructor, presented the flag to a group of school boys, and superintendent of schools, A. K. Whitcomb, responded, and at the same time gave a very interesting talk to the children. An interesting program consisting of violin and cornet solos, and also songs in German and Portuguese by students of the school was given. The exercises were brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," "Flag Salute" and "America."

FOREST FIRES

Burning Over a Vast Territory

TOKIO, May 20.—Forest fires in Hokkaido, the northern island of the islands of Japan, are devastating vast territory. A number of villages already have been destroyed. The troops have been called out and every available man is fighting the flames. The fire is almost sixty miles in length. It is impossible this afternoon to estimate the number of fatalities or the amount of damage resulting from the conflagration.

HAVANA, May 20.—General Bernardo Reyes, the Mexican ex-minister of war, who arrived here yesterday from Europe, and who has delayed his departure for Mexico City pending the receipt of despatches from the Mexican capital regarding further developments of the Mexican situation, today made a formal declaration to the Associated Press in which he said that his supreme desire is for peace which can be secured only by the laying aside of all personal and partisan pretensions on the part of both the government and the revolutionists.

THE DAVIE CREDITORS

BOSTON, May 20.—Thirteen creditors of Robert E. Davie, the "boy broker," who is in Charles street jail awaiting trial on indictments charging embezzlement, were reported in claims placed before Emory Gibbs, referee in bankruptcy of the United States district court, at a meeting of creditors in this city today. Claims against Davie amounting to between $5000 and $6000 were presented and approved by the referee. Davie was represented by his counsel, Winfield Towne, who said that his client could not be made to appear at the meeting on account of his having been brought here without extradition papers from Rio Janeiro.

BOSTON WOMEN PLAYED GOLF AND WERE ENTERTAINED

A pretty gathering took place at the Vesper-Country club yesterday, when 14 members of the Women's Golf association of Boston were present and enjoyed a game of golf. ## YOUNG BOYLE LOWELL BOXER TO APPEAR AT WOBURN

Young Boyle, the clever 126-pounder of this city, who has blighted the aspirations of many of the youngsters of his class, is matched in a semi-final for Monday night with Cy Goodwin, of Boston, before the members of the Woburn Athletic club in Lyceum hall in Woburn. Boyle has been coming at a rapid gait and has moved down all of the clearest at his weight.

Cy Morgan, although a new comer, has shown the clubs of Boston that he has some knowledge of the game and has defeated all who have faced him on the roped platform. He fought a fight before the Army club members a few weeks ago which was remarkable for its length, inasmuch as he put his opponent to sleep with the first swing of his terrific left, which landed squarely on the jaw.

Boyle, as an idea of the proposition he has on his hands to defeat Goodwin, and has put in the past week in faithful training, and is in tip-top shape for the bout.

Five Town Meetings, An Investigation and An Injunction Were Preliminary to Its Start—Chelmsford Iron Foundry Is Going Along Busily

Thus the matter of a new school for North Chelmsford came up at the regular meeting of the town March 28, 1910. A committee of three was appointed to look up sites at the north village. The committee started in by calling an informal meeting of the citizens of North Chelmsford to discuss the matter.

The meeting at first proved to be a

The overall appearance is that of a heavily degraded or noisy scan of a document page.

It was the intention of the management to reopen last Tuesday but the cooling plant in the theatre was found to have outlived its usefulness and the management will have to wait until the

The new company gave a very smooth first performance of Eugene Walters' thrilling drama of the Canadian Northwest, "The Wolf," a play that has been the great dramatic hit of the past few seasons. A review of the performance will appear in a later issue. At the close of the new company which is unquestionably one of the strongest

LAND QUESTION IN ENGLAND

Following the example of Ireland in affording the people an opportunity to become the owners of their holdings, there is a movement in England to enable the tenants to purchase and to compel the landlords to sell under certain conditions. There is a land bill before parliament at the present time, making provision for a liberal advance to the tenants to enable them purchase their holdings. There is a real land question in England and one of greater proportions in Scotland where the "crofters" have to depend almost entirely upon the land for a living. A nation of peasant proprietors will be a stronger, more patriotic and more prosperous nation than one made up mainly of tenants who have little interest in the improvement of their holdings because they have to pay rent forever.

QUEER MILK DECISION

The supreme court of Massachusetts seems to have very liberal ideas in regard to the liquid offered for sale as milk. In an opinion just handed down, the full bench sustains a Vermont company in offering for sale condensed milk diluted with water, cream and skimmed milk. Milk of this kind can be kept for six months if necessary and then diluted to the consistency of milk. The milk inspector of Boston says that the city will be flooded with condensed milk, and the fact that there is now an epidemic of tonsillitis, said to be due to the milk supply, may have some bearing on the case.

It is true the supreme court holds that there was no evidence to show that the defendant company in this case offered this preparation for sale as natural milk. The sale is evidently permitted as is that of butterine or oleomargarine, but if that be the contention then under the provisions of the pure food laws every bottle or can should be plainly labelled "condensed milk," "diluted milk," "doctored milk," "adulterated milk," or whatever the proper designation should be.

LOWELL'S DEMAND FOR A NEW CHARTER

The people of Lowell hearing that the legislature enacted the Cambridge charter are encouraged to believe that it will also enact the Lowell charter, inasmuch as this city is in much greater need of a new charter than is Cambridge.

Since the charter hearing was held here a number of things have occurred, not only in our city council but outside to convince the voters that a new charter is an imperative necessity if our city is to be given an equal chance of prosperity with the other cities of the state. No city can afford to have to appeal to the courts every little while to compel its double-headed city council do business. Under the commission charter the voters could regulate all such matters without going to the courts. Time and again has it been demonstrated that the common council is not only unnecessary but an obstruction to the prompt and judicious transaction of the city's business.

The people of Lowell want a charter that will enable them to build a public hall if they want one without waiting half a dozen years to settle a matter that a few business men would settle in two weeks. We want a charter that will centre responsibility so that the people will know where to carry their complaints and know where to place the praise or blame for what is best and worst in the municipal administration. We want a government that will respond to the will of the people, something in which the present charter is wholly deficient. The people can elect their officers under the present charter but they have no control over them after election. What is wanted is a charter that will give the people not only the power of electing their public officials but also of controlling those officials after election. This power is given in the recall which enables the voters to retire an official once he proves recreant to his duty. In the initiative and referendum the people are given the additional power of initiating any law that is desirable and which their elected officials fail to enact. The referendum gives them the power of defeating any bad legislation before it can take effect. Thus the commission charter is the most democratic charter ever devised because it places the power absolutely in the hands of the people, and this clasp about its taking power away from the people is nothing but political humbug put forth to mislead the people.

In these days of scientific progress and widespread competition every city must be in a position to make the best of its opportunities, to develop its resources and provide as best it may for the peace, prosperity and happiness of its people; but this it cannot do under an antiquated charter such as that under which we now try to do business.

We feel that the legislature should realize the situation and give the people of Lowell an opportunity to select a different and a better form of government if the majority so decide. There is a question of home rule involved and one which the legislature should also recognize. Lowell was before the legislature two years ago asking for a new charter but the demand was refused. If the present petition for a new charter be also refused, the citizens will ask, "What is the use of trying to secure better government since we are handicapped by a legislature which binds us down to a city charter that is nearly half a century old?" We are now a city of 100,000, and it is high time we should get away from the provincialism which has held us down in the past and which unless quickly cast off will prove a handicap to our future progress.

This charter is not, as has been alleged, the concoction of any clique. It is little different from the general form of commission charter adopted by over a hundred cities in this country and likely soon to be adopted by a large proportion of the cities of our own state. It is to be hoped that the people of Lowell will be given a chance to vote upon this important question of changing the organic law of our city.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Harvard professor who says that ten cents a day is enough for food completely overlooks the fact that you can't get strawberry shortcake for less than fifteen cents at any of the restaurants.

White lies aren't always so white as they are painted.

A TRIBUTE TO THE ANIMALS
As a specimen of Tupper's work at its best, may be given the following lines from "Of Cruelty to Animals":

Earth and her million tribes are cursed for thy sake,
Earth and her million tribes still writhe beneath thy cruelty;
Lament there but one among the million that shall not bear witness against thee.

A peasant of land or air or sea that hath not whereof it will accuse thee?

From the elephant looting at a launch to the shrew-mouse in the harvest-field,

From the whale which the harpooner hath stricken, to the minnow caught upon a pin,

From the albatross, wearied in its flight, to the wren in her covered nest,

From the death moth and lace-winged dragon fly to the lady bird and the gnat

The verdict of all things is unanimous, finding their master cruel;

The dog, thy faithful friend, thy trusting, honest friend;

The ass, thine uncomplaining slave, drudging from morn to even;

The lamb, and the timorous hare, and the laboring ox at plow;

The speckled trout basking in the shallow, and the partridge gleaming in the stubble;

And the starling in the air, and the wren in the path, and the wild bird pining in captivity,

And all things that minister alike to thy life and thy comfort and thy pride,

Testify with one sad voice that man is a cruel master.

The first man to arrive at an evening party always makes up his mind that he will go slower next time.

A man is absolutely without redress

Time heals all our wounds, as it dims all our joys;

I've loved, and I've worked in the sweat of my brow;

I used to go out for a time with the boys—

O, I was a sport—but I'm over it now! I sit in the evening of life and look back

On the furrows of life I was anxious to plow.

And only one thing I can feel that I lack—

Ah, once I was young—but I'm over it now!

That's all in my life I would care to call back—

The youth that is fled—but I'm over it now!

When somebody nukes the remark that the new baby looks just like him.

Almost any man is pleased at getting two per cent off for cash, even if five per cent is added to the amount of the bill when it is made out to make the discount possible.

Of course it is too much to expect that your neighbor will haul his heavy garden roller over to your house when he lends it to you, but if you keep it long enough perhaps he will be glad to haul it home.

When a woman asks a man: "Will you promise to do something for me?" without explaining what it is, the only thing for him to do is to say: "Sure!" promptly, and then trust to luck to get out of it, if it is something that he doesn't want to do.

Practice, they say, makes perfect, but the fact remains that the more a man coughs, the worse he coughs.

If everybody should keep his place up the way the neighbors think he ought to, how great an improvement in the appearance of the city there would be!

GETTING OVER IT.
I once was in love with a peach of a girl—

Kind that the story books tell you about—

My heart was a furnace, my head was a whirl,

O, I was a lover beyond any doubt! I pleaded my cause and she listened awhile,

Then laughed at my passion and teased every vow;

I swore I would die in a tragical style, But I didn't, and so—I'm over it now!

And once I saved up like a thrifty old soul,

Preparing myself for the rainiest day, Until I had gathered together a roll

That I couldn't carry—I needed a dry.

Yes, I was full wealthy, I dreamed it would last—

A hope which my destiny wouldn't allow;

I look with a sigh at the wreck of my past,

For I once was flush—but I'm over it now!

Time heals all our wounds, as it dims all our joys;

I've loved, and I've worked in the sweat of my brow;

I used to go out for a time with the boys—

O, I was a sport—but I'm over it now! I sit in the evening of life and look back

On the furrows of life I was anxious to plow.

He was born in Oxford, Chenango county, N. Y., and when a young man entered the Delaware, N. Y., Literary Institute, beginning his educational work immediately after he was graduated from the institute. In 1853 he was graduated from Williams College. Two years later, Mr. Horton became instructor in natural sciences under the Rev. Dr. George Kerr, and soon after principal of the Walton, N. Y., academy. In 1851 he again became associated with Dr. Kerr, first as professor of botany and physics in the New York State Agricultural College of Ovid, N. Y., and next associate principal in the Jefferson County Institute, N. Y. In the Agricultural College he remained but one year, due to the fact that a majority of the pupils enlisted in the Civil war. In 1854 Mr. Horton became principal of the Onondaga, N. Y., seminary. He applied himself to the study of law and in 1859 was admitted to the bar. He also served as criminal judge of the high school at Williamsport, Pa., and later became superintendent of schools in that city. In 1856 he was superintendent of schools at Towanda, Pa., and from 1853 to 1890 was School Commissioner of Chenango county, New York. For the last fourteen years he had lived in Glen Ridge, N. J., with his wife and two sons, one of whom, John M. Horton, being connected with the Chemical bank, in New York.

"I have been looking all through the house end of the capital," said Captain Emerson Brooks of the Cayuga, N. Y., region, "trying to find a painting of Theodore Pomeroy, who was once speaker of the house. I find portraits of all other speakers almost from the beginning of things congressional, but none of Pomeroy. Now, our townsman Pomeroy was very proud of the fact that he had served as speaker of the house, even if his term as speaker lasted but a single day. That day began March 3, 1859, and he served until the new house was organized on March 4, following the inauguration of Grant and Colfax. You may recall that Colfax had been speaker for a long time, and resigned both as speaker and as member of the house the day before he was made vice-president. That accounts for the one day tenure of the speakership which fell to our friend Pomeroy, who was chosen by the house to preside. He had served several terms as a member of the house, and his congressional service ended when he laid down the gavel after one day as speaker. Pomeroy was a very prominent man locally up our way and had held other positions of honor, but none so great as giving him the pleasure that was afforded by that one day in the speaker's chair. He was a comparatively young man when he left congress, but did not seem to yearn for further political honors."

In the beautiful little city of the dead in the historic city of Eddyville, Ky., is a plain slab bearing the inscription "Murdered in cold blood by Martin Bigwood and Hyman Skinner." This was erected by the widow of Charles Gatewood. Both Bigwood and Skinner served terms in the penitentiary for the crime. Skinner was a member of one of the most prominent families in western Kentucky. He travelled over the entire habitable world and then returned to Eddyville and surrendered to the authorities. Both were pardoned before their terms expired, and so far as we know they have since led reputable lives. Many efforts were made to have Mrs. Gatewood erase the inscription, but she refused to authorize it, and it is there to this day.

In the state cemetery at Frankfort on a classic marble column may be found the name and a brief record of the life of Solomon P. Sharp, and at the close may be found the significant words: "Stabbed to death while extending the hand of hospitality." Mr. Sharp, the third of his name in the early part of the last century, was one of the most prominent men of his age in the state. He was killed by his former friend and protégé, Jacobson Bearcham. The killing involved a family feud, and partisans of each side may be found to this day.

Some famous jewels will be seen at the coronation of King George V. It is estimated that the value of the apparel and ornaments worn in Westminster Abbey will exceed $55,000,000.

The value of the regalia was calculated at $15,000,000 at the commencement of King Edward's reign. It is estimated that the value of the apparel and ornaments worn in Westminster Abbey will exceed $55,000,000.

The actual market value of the famous South African stones is probably not less than $10,000,000.

There will be present at the coronation between 75 and 800 peregrines and other birds of prey, some of which will wear their finest gowns. Some of

Soothes and Heals

This is only one of a hundred uses which make Toiletine a household necessity. It immediately relieves inflammation in every form. Taken internally or used externally it allays irritation and restores a healthy, normal condition to the affected part. It cools and soothes burning, itching, smarting, and hastens the healing of open wounds. It has no equal for chilblains, chapped hands, for use after shaving, or for any distressing diseases of the skin.

they are practically priceless in that they are unique and have, therefore, no standard of valuation.

The Countess of Aberdeen possesses some famous emeralds, including the five largest in the world. Lady Wimbome possesses the finest rubies in the world, among them being the Hope ruby, a stone far exceeding in value even the more famous Hope diamond. It is so blue in tint that it transmitted light it might almost be taken for a very dark toned sapphire. With her magnificent diamonds and pearls, Lady Wimbome will carry about $50,000 worth of jewels on her person at the coronation.

In the more matter of money's worth she will be eclipsed by her American niece, the Duchess of Marlborough, who will no doubt wear her historic pearls, some of which belonged to Marie Antoinette, while others formed the collection of the Empress Catherine of Russia. So perfectly matched are they in skin and color that their equal as a set could not be bought for less than $75,000.

Another wonderful set of pearls is that belonging to the Countess of Ilchester. They are the most perfect black pearls in existence. They were purchased from the Empress Eugenie for $25,000, but their market value today is probably three or four times that amount.

This estimate does not take into account the fortunes represented by the jewelry of Indian princes and chiefs attending the ceremony, some of whom are said to carry from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000 each on their persons on great state occasions.

COMMUNICATION

The following communication is received from the chairman of the charity board.

Editor Sun, Dear Sir: In an editorial in the Courier Citizen of May 18 that paper says "so far as the work of the (charity) board goes, we have heard no special criticism of it this year and have made none editorially to our knowledge."

The writer then suggests that the charity board resign en masse—very consistent. This would raise the question whether the writer is en masse or rather scattered. The "low ball" at the "present mayor" is foreign to the workings of the charity board and uncalled for, particularly when one recalls some former mayors of not so long ago as to be classed with the Ancients and Honorables. I notice that in the short editorial there are nine "we's." One got away and was classed as "Us" making really ten. Not as chairman of the board of charities I would like to invite the "we's" to come and get acquainted with the board at any of our meetings; come en masse or, if the "we's" prefer, singly. Talk to us about "Castles in Spain" or the pyramids of Egypt about which the "we's" probably know a great deal more than of the charity board. If this invitation would in any way lower the dignity, or dignities, (that "we" bothers me, as I don't know whether it is a singular thing or plural) of the "we's," the board of charity could visit the "we's." By thus meeting the board there might be an interchange of ideas that would be beneficial to this city if not to the Courier Citizen, and how much nicer this would be than to be throwing paper spit balls for political effect. The plural editorial genius of the C. C. need have no fear of meeting the charity board much less of a visit to the institution where the erroneous ideas held by the "we's" may be easily corrected.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. McCarty, M. D.

Chairman, Board of Charities.

HERESY CASE

Will be Given Prompt
Consideration

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 20.—The papers in the heresy case against the Rev. Dr. William Grant of Northumberland, Pa., having been presented to the Presbyterian general assembly now in session here, it is expected that the judicial committee to which the case has been referred will give it prompt consideration. Dr. Grant was acquitted of the heresy charges by his presbytery but the prosecution appealed the case to the general assembly. The accused clergyman says that he is confident that the general assembly will sustain his acquittal.

The heresy case against the Rev. Dr. Francis Brown, president of Union Theological seminary, and Prof. William Adams Brown of the same institution has not yet come before the assembly.

Among the matters discussed today is the consolidation of several boards, which provoked a long discussion yesterday.

The report of the special committee on Sabbath observance was also taken up today. It reviewed the work done by the committee and made recommendations for further work in the campaign for Sabbath observance.

"Many industrial concerns have joined the ranks of those establishments which have discontinued Sunday work. The sentiment that laboring men should strike for a six day week as well as an eight hour day is growing and meets the approval of labor leaders."

INDICTMENTS QUASHED

"Boss" Cox of Ohio

CINCINNATI, May 20.—Motions to for perjury on that testimony there quash the perjury indictments against George B. Cox, the banker and republican politician, made by his attorneys two weeks ago, were granted by Judge Dickson of the common pleas court, who announced his decision in the case today.

Judge Dickson found the indictments defective in substance, this phase of the decision operating to free Cox not only from the indictments in question but also from re-indictment on the same set of alleged facts by any subsequent grand jury.

Cox was indicted on Feb. 1 and his case has been fought before 15 judges of the common pleas circuit and supreme courts of Ohio over various technicalities.

Judge Dickson holds, in substance, that in calling Cox before the grand jury in 1906 and compelling him to testify there and then indicting him

LADY FORESTERS

Of Court Blanche de Castille—Its History and Officers

One of the most prosperous courts of the French American Order of Foresters in this city is Court Blanche de Castille, which is composed of women exclusively. It was organized on October 28, 1908, by Deputy F. N. Rivet.

The first meeting was held at C. M. A. C. hall and on that night 42 charter members were initiated. A short time later another similar court was organized in the Centralville district, and this was known as Court Jeanne d'Arc. For some reason or other, however, this last court did not exist very long, and its members numbering about 40 were transferred to Court Blanche de Castille.

The first board of officers of the latter court were: Della Brinelle, chief forester; Anna Levasseur, sub chief forester; Anna Champagne, financial secretary; Della L'Amour, treasurer; Emma Demers, recording secretary.

The members of the court are very enthusiastic and always ready to work for the interest of the order. A feature with them is the many entertainments held under their auspices.

They are now planning a recruiting contest to be opened some time in July, the closing of which will be a grand observance. The membership role of the court is quite large and a substantial sum of money is in the treasury, for there was not one single death among the members of this court, and work for the interest of the order. A feature with them is the many entertainments held under their auspices.

THE WATERWAYS

Plan to Safeguard Them
Discussed

The joint committee on waterways appointed by the city council to devise ways and means to safeguard the city's waterways met last night at city hall. Councilman Coughlin, chairman, presided.

An opinion from the city solicitor was read, quoting sections 32 and 33 of chapter 52 of the revised laws. This states that if the council of a city, after due notice to parties interested, adjudges a canal or waterway running within the limits of land owned by the parties, as dangerous, it shall by an order in writing cause the interested parties to fence off the canal or natural water course. If this is not done within 60 days the city can do the work, charge the bill up to the interested party or parties and also a fine of from $50 to $100 may be imposed.

It was voted to have a hearing on the matter before the committee on the night of May 29. Representatives of the various corporations in the city will be invited to attend this.

St. Michael's Mission Greatest in History of the Parish

The greatest mission ever held in St. Michael's church will come to a close tomorrow evening when the men who have attended the morning and evening services for the past week will receive the Papal blessing and hear a sermon on "Perseverance" by Rev. Fr. Foley, O. P. The women's mission last week was closed by Rev. Bernard Kelly, O. P., and he will officiate tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock when the men will assemble for final instructions and the blessing. The other member of this remarkable mission band is Rev. Fr. Donohoe, O. P., and the mission has been noted for the eloquence and effectiveness of the discourses given by the preachers. All three are happily possessed of resonant voices and are naturally eloquent. The reputation of the Dominicans as preachers being universal, many men of different religious faiths have attended the services during the week to hear the sermons, and all have been much impressed with the attractive voices of the preachers and their perfect knowledge of human nature. The sermon preached by Rev. Fr. Kelly on "Blasphemy" a few evenings ago is still a leading topic of conversation among the men, and undoubtedly will result in an increased membership of the Holy Name society.

It will be recalled that it was a Dominican, Rev. Charles Hyacinth McCann, O. P., now in the west who traversed the country organizing the Holy Name societies which are now in many parishes throughout the land the most important society of the church. A test of the success of this week's mission came on Thursday evening, the hottest night of the year. It was expected that there would be a falling off, but the church basement and main church were packed and in the main church it was necessary to place seats within the sanctuary. Another test is the number of communicants. It is believed that the men will equal if not outnumber the women in receiving the sacrament, which is most unusual. This evening there will be no sermon, but the Holy Hour service will be held from 7.30 to 8.30. The missionaries will hear confessions throughout the day and expect to have heard all by the close of the Holy Hour service. Frs. Foley, Kelly and Donohoe came here from the Provincial house at Newark, N. J., and after leaving Lowell will give missions at Providence and Newport, R. I. Fr. Foley is a native of South Boston. Fr. Kelly is from Louisville, Ky., and studied at the original mother-house of the order, St. Rose monastery, at Springfield, Ky., while Fr. Donohoe is from Newark. They have been steadily engaged on missions since the beginning of the Lenten season and have met with great results. They are deeply gratified over the great crowds that have attended the mission at St. Michael's and the constancy with which they have attended all services.

NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

LYNN, May 20.—At the conclusion of a continued hearing in the district court today, Judge Lummas discharged Patrick J. Lyons, a chauffeur, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Samuel Gould, a seven-year-old boy, on May 7. The child was playing in the street and was run over by an automobile operated by Lyons. After the accident Lyons carried the child to a hospital and then surrendered to the police. Witnesses of the accident said in court today that Lyons did everything in his power to avert the accident.

TO TAKE OVER EXPRESS BUSINESS

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Wells Fargo Express Co. has arranged to take over after July 1 the business of the Pacific Express Co., which operates over the Missouri Pacific and its affiliated lines. Missouri Pacific officials said today:

"It has been found that the service of the Pacific Express restricted to the Missouri and the affiliated lines was not to the best interest of its shippers and could be better served by an express company reaching practically all the commercial centers in the United States and foreign countries. The related railway interests in the Gould system are making arrangements with Wells Fargo & Co. for a comprehensive improvement of the service on their lines."

LICENSE TRADES

Boston Police to Stop Them

BOSTON, May 20.—The licensing board has put its foot down on speculation in liquor licenses. After Aug. 1 of this year the board for the remainder of the license year will consider no application for the sale of license papers, except in cases of death, bankruptcy or some other imperative reason. This means that there will be a big tumble in the asking price of licenses, which at the present time are quoted from $12,000 to $15,000. After Aug. 1 these licenses will be good only to the persons in whose names they were granted.

The license board says that at present there are 20 licenses being carried around by men who are looking for a chance to unload at a good profit. It is in this speculation that the board wants to stop. No member of the board would speak last night regarding the latest order. It is said, however, that several complaints have been received by the board from persons wishing to engage in the liquor business that the price asked for licenses by persons holding them and not wishing to enter into the business themselves was excessive.

The board is holding in reserve 16 licenses, some of which, it is said, will be granted to the new hotels in process of construction or contemplated.

The new order of the board will cause the holders of the unused 20 licenses to either surrender them or go into business. If surrendered to the board it will give the board the opportunity of awarding them at the regulation figures.

BOXING STOPPED

Amateurs Were Placed Under Arrest

NEW YORK, May 20.—Police interference brought the international amateur boxing tournament in Madison square garden to a halt last night after one bout had been decided.

The police charged that the bouts were in violation of law as tickets had been sold to non-members of the Pastime Athletic club, which had arranged the tournament.

As soon as the first bout had ended, Referee Tim Hurst, the two boxers and eight other persons, including timekeepers and other officials, were placed under arrest.

They were taken to the night court, where it was hoped some ruling in the matter might be had to determine whether or not the night tournament could be continued in New York. The promoters seemed doubtful if the bouts scheduled for tonight would be held in the garden in any event. The smaller auditorium of some clubhouse might be selected, it was said.

A way out of the difficulty seemed to present itself when the reporter of an offer from the Boston Athletic association to have the tournament in Boston was reported. Up to midnight no decision had been reached in the matter. A representative crowd of boxing enthusiasts had assembled in the garden to watch the bouts, in which amateur boxers of the United States and England were to meet American champions in the various classes. The tournament was a two night affair, to be concluded today with the finals. An English team of amateur champions in five classes arrived here Sunday to participate.

The first preliminary bout last night was in the 115 pound class between William Shandler of the Boys' club of New York and Sam Lowing of Newark. Shandler stopping Lowing in the opening round.

As soon as Referee Tim Hurst announced Shandler as the winner, Police Captain Hayes stepped forward and declared that a policeman who was not a member of the club bought a ticket, that the bouts were being held in violation of the law and made the arrests.

BETTER PRICES MARKED THE FINAL TRADING

The Active Group Made Gains Over Yesterday—Rock Island Issues Were Strong—Fertilizer Stocks Made a Partial Recovery

NEW YORK, May 20.—A brisk selling movement was undertaken when the market opened today. The market leaders were attacked severely by the bear traders but the losses in these issues were confined to small fractions. Some of the less active stocks suffered more severely. Virginia-Carolina Chemical dropped 1 1/2. Westinghouse Electric one and National Lead and National Railways of Mexico second and 1/2.

Efforts to put up prices were hampered by a further outbreak of liquidation in the fertilizers. Reports regarding the business conditions confronting the companies were not at all promising and there seemed to be some renewal of concentrated bear efforts against the group. Railroad stocks mostly advanced beyond their opening figures. Missouri Pacific was conspicuously heavy. American Locomotive gained 1 and Evansville & Terre Haute five points.

The market closed strong. Increased activity and better prices marked the final trading, the active group gaining fractionally over yesterday's closing figures. Rock Island issues were notably strong. The fertilizer stocks made partial recovery from their early declines.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Prime mercantile paper, 3 1/4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady at 48.40 for 60 day bills and at 48.35 for demand. Commercial bills 48 1/2. Bar silver 53 1/2. Mexican dollars 45. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds steady. Time loans strong, 60 days 2 1/2 per cent, 90 days 2 3/4 per cent, six months 3 1/4 per cent.

STATEHOOD BILL

CAUSED SESSION OF THE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Anticipations of members of the house whose homes are within easy reach of Washington that they might spend the week-end with their families, were rudely shattered yesterday when it was decided that there should be a session today. It was the first Saturday session in many weeks and the statehood resolution to admit Arizona and New Mexico was the only business on the calendar. The measure will constantly be before the house until Tuesday night when it will be called up for passage.

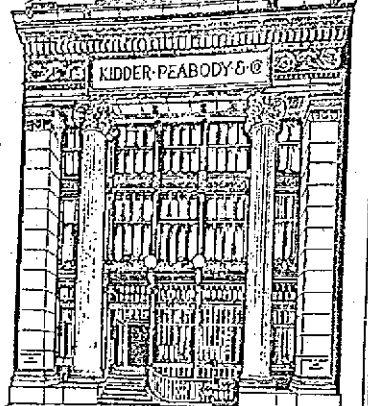

The senate was not in session today.
